Food, Agriculture and Social Change Stephen Sherwood,Alberto Arce,Myriam Paredes,2017-05-22 In recent years food studies scholarship has tended to focus on a number of increasingly abstract largely unquestioned concepts with regard to how capital markets and states organize and operate This has led to a gulf between public policy and people s realities with food as experienced in homes and on the streets Through grounded case studies in seven Latin American countries this book explores how development and social change in food and agriculture are fundamentally experiential contingent and unpredictable In viewing development in food as a socio political material experience the authors find new objects intersubjectivities and associations These reveal a multiplicity of processes effects and affects largely absent in current academic literature and public policy debates In their attention to the contingency and creativity found in households neighbourhoods and social networks as well as at the borders of human nonhuman experience the book explores how people diversely meet their food needs and passions while confronting the region s most pressing social health and environmental concerns

Farm Mechanisation and Social Change Chander Bhan,1987 Based on the study of a cross section of respondents covering tractor owners bullock owners and non owners of draft power the book tries to show that as compared to other farming sections mechanised farmers have greater use of green revolution as manifested in cropping pattern and intensity use of high yielding varieties fertilizer consumption and farm yields and incomes Suggests that technological advancement if promoted and supported vigorously is likely to eliminate or neutralize the hold of traditional institutional frame work and non scientific beliefs in addition to promoting agricultural production and productivity and rural incomes and employment      The Social Consequences And Challenges Of New Agricultural Technologies Gigi M Berardi, Charles C Geisler, 2019-07-11 Although formal social impact assessment of changing technologies in U S agriculture is still in its infancy scholars have been documenting the effects of new technology throughout the twentieth century In this collection Prcfessors Berardi and Geisler bring together historically relevant research and a carefully chosen cross section of contemporary work Their review of the literature is followed by an evaluation of the effects of mechanization on labor and production written in 1904 which provides a backdrop for papers from the 1940s and 1950s examining the mechanization of agriculture in the South in the Midwest and in rural areas in general Subsequent chapters offer present day insights on such topics as the socioeconomic consequences of automated vegetable and tobacco harvesting center pivot irrigation and organic and no till cultivation The authors also look at compensation and adjustment programs for displaced labor the relationship between technology and agribusiness growth and the effectiveness of university programs that prepare students to perform social impact assessments in agriculture The edited proceedings of a spirited roundtable discussion on new directions for the study of the social impacts of farm technology and the political economy of agriculture provide the thought provoking conclusion to this overview of the field
