The testimony of over two hundred children gives voice for the first time to their experiences, their views and their needs. It examines how children attain the status of victims in the criminal justice system. Drawing on recent research findings, the authors examine each stage of the legal process that a child encounters from the initial reporting of the offence through police investigation to the trial itself. They contrast the specialist response to victims of child sexual abuse with the experience of children who are victims of other crimes thrust into an adult system which takes little account of their needs. Child Victims concludes by examining the role of support services and agencies dealing with child victims and makes a number of key recommendations for future policy. Child Protection in England, 1960-2000 Jennifer Crane, 2018-09-25. This book is open access under a CC BY 4.0 license. This open access book explores how children, parents and survivors reshaped the politics of child protection in late twentieth century England. Activism by these groups often manifested in small voluntary organisations drew upon and constructed an expertise grounded in experience and emotion that supported, challenged and subverted medical, social work, legal and political authority. New forms of experiential and emotional expertise were manifested in politics through consultation, voting and lobbying but also in the reshaping of everyday life and in new partnerships formed between voluntary spokespeople and media. While becoming subjects of and agents in child protection politics over the late twentieth century, children, parents and survivors also faced barriers to enacting change and the book traces how long-standing structural hierarchies, particularly around gender and age, mediated and inhibited the realisation of experiential and emotional expertise. Counselling Pupils in Schools Carol Hall, Eric Hall, Garry Hornby, 2003-08-29.
