Television And Society An Inquest And Agenda For Improvement:

Television and Society. An Inquest and Agenda for Improvement Harry Jay Skornia,1965      Television and Society Robert Beck Burrows,1965      Television and Social Behavior John P. Murray,Oguz Bulent Nayman,1971      Out of the Garden Stephen Kline,1993 This timely and innovative book provides a detailed history of marketing to children revealing the strategies that shape the design of toys and have a powerful impact on the way children play Stephen Kline looks at the history and development of children s play culture and toys from the teddy bear and Lego to the Barbie doll Care Bears and Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles He profiles the rise of children s mass media books comics film and television and that of the specialty stores such as Toys R Us revealing how the opportunity to reach large audiences of children through television was a pivotal point in developing new approaches to advertising Contemporary youngsters he shows are catapulted into a fantastic and chaotic time space continuum of action toys thanks to the merchandisers interest in animated television Kline looks at the imagery and appeal of the toy commercials and at how they provide a host of stereotyped figures around which children can organize their imaginative experience He shows how the deregulation of advertising in the United States in the 1980s has led directly to the development of the new marketing strategies which use television series to saturate the market with promotional character toys Finally in a powerful re examination of the debates about the cultural effects of television Out of the Garden asks whether we should allow our children s play culture to be primarily defined and created by marketing strategies pointing to the unintended consequences of a situation in which images of real children have all but been eliminated from narratives about the young      Daytime Television Game Shows and the Celebration of Merchandise Morris B. Holbrook,1993 Insights into the nature of the consumer society and its ethos of consumption can often emerge from interpreting even the most lowly specimens of popular culture In this spirit a neglected genre that promises to shed light on the culture of consumption appears in the form of the daytime television game shows whose hegemonic message seems to convey and to justify a widespread obeisance to the mandate of materialism These game shows often present a text that demands a readerly monosemic dominant interpretation as an unabashed celebration of merchandise In particular a close analysis of the longest running game show The Price Is Right suggests that all facets of this program combine to reinforce its central meaning as a ritualistic validation of consumption oriented greed An alternative resistant reading is explored but rejected in part because it rests on an assumption that violates the empirical data and in part because it provides a more convincing analysis of a program like Supermarket Sweep In short the present study concludes that TV game shows in general and The Price Is Right in particular reflect and reinforce the obsession that many modern consumers feel with merchandise valued almost for its own sake beyond any need or even capacity to use it as a kind of disembodied target of misdirected desire      Public Health Service Publication ,1971      Women and TV Culture in Pakistan Munira Cheema,2018-07-30 The television broadcasting culture of Pakistan was changed dramatically in 2002 The President General

Pervez Musharraf introduced a policy of liberalisation that enabled controversial issues such as honour killings adultery stoning to death domestic violence marriage after divorce and homosexuality to be increasingly depicted on screen Women and TV Culture in Pakistan is the first in depth analysis of this change in television content Munira Cheema focuses on how gender issues are dealt with on TV and examines the impact this has on female viewers In Pakistan television is often the only way in which women can access the public sphere except through male guardians and this book evaluates how TV content allows them to navigate their intersecting identities as Muslims women and Pakistanis At a time when religious conservatism is on the rise in the country this book investigates why producers choose to focus on gender based issues and the extent to which religion dictates social behaviour and broadcasting choices Based on interviews with women viewers in Karachi as well as industry professionals including writers directors and ratings experts the research is a much needed and original contribution to global television studies and gender studies The Hollywood TV Producer Muriel G.

Cantor, 2017-07-12 Except for accounts of journalists dissident employees and an occasional congressional committee focusing on crime and unethical practices we have known very little about how television programs are produced The Hollywood TV Producer originally published in 1971 was the first serious examination of constraints conflicts and rewards in the daily lives of television producers Its insights were important at the time and have not been challenged Using as her framework the social system of mass communications Muriel G Cantor shows how producers select stories for television series and how movies end up in prime time In order to get a comprehensive look at the inner workings of the TV industry and its producers the author interviewed eighty producers in Hollywood over a two season period She probed to discover how the people producers work for and where they work influences their decision making As Cantor shows critics of television who suggest that to remain in production a producer must first please the business organization that finances his or her operations are largely correct Cantor shows that content is determined by a combination of artistic and professional factors as well as social economic and political norms that have developed over time in the industry A History of

Broadcasting in the United States Erik Barnouw, 1968-02-20 Tells how radio and television became an integral part of American life of how a toy became an industry and a force in politics business education religion and international affairs

A History of Broadcasting in the United States: The Image Empire Erik Barnouw, 1970-02-18 During the iQSo s in a frontier atmosphere of enterprise and sharp struggle an American television system took shape But even as it did so its pioneers pushed beyond American borders and became programmers to scores of other nations In its first decade United States television was already a world phenomenon Since American radio had for some time had international ramifications American images and sounds were radiating from transmitter towers throughout the globe They were called entertainment or news or education but were always more They were a reflection of a growing United States involvement in the lives of other nations an involvement of imperial scope The role of broadcasters in this American expansion and in the era that produced it is the subject matter of The Image Empire the last of three volumes comprising this study      A Companion to Popular Culture Gary Burns, 2016-03-09 A Companion to Popular Culture is a landmark survey of contemporary research in popular culture studies that offers a comprehensive and engaging introduction to the field Includes over two dozen essays covering the spectrum of popular culture studies from food to folklore and from TV to technology Features contributions from established and up and coming scholars from a range of disciplines Offers a detailed history of the study of popular culture Balances new perspectives on the politics of culture with in depth analysis of topics at the forefront of popular culture studies

Role of Media in Nation Building Anand Shanker Singh, 2016-09-23 The concept of nation building is a multi dimensional process addressing various components simultaneously It takes into account the various historical and geographical perspectives of the country in question noting the peculiarities and diversity of its cultural ethos including its social economic and political structures This volume addresses these inter linked aspects and the innovative development of these structures and institutions However such changes and development must be directed to create a more culturally homogenous and productive society so that basic human needs like food shelter healthcare and education are fulfilled at the optimum level All round development and growth for the nation can be achieved only with a robust economy and political stability As such the process of nation building and development is a multifaceted phenomenon In the context of India this process is associated with the central values embodied in the preamble of the country s constitution which advocates for the establishment of secular socialist and democratic society based on well defined fundamental rights This anthology reflects these academic spirits and vistas      Oratorical Culture in Nineteenth-century America Gregory Clark, S. Michael Halloran, 1993 Gregory Clark and S Michael Halloran bring together nine essays that explore change in both the theory and the practice of rhetoric in the nineteenth century United States In their introductory essay Clark and Halloran argue that at the beginning of the nineteenth century rhetoric encompassed a neoclassical oratorical culture in which speakers articulated common values to establish consensual moral authority that directed community thought and action As the century progressed however moral authority shifted from the civic realm to the professional thus expanding participation in the community as it fragmented the community itself Clark and Halloran argue that this shift was a transformation in which rhetoric was reconceived to meet changing cultural needs Part I examines the theories and practices of rhetoric that dominated at the beginning of the century The essays in this section include Edward Everett and Neoclassical Oratory in Genteel America by Ronald F Reid The Oratorical Poetic of Timothy Dwight by Gregory Clark The Sermon as Public Discourse Austin Phelps and The Conservative Homiletic Tradition in Nineteenth Century America by Russel Hirst and A Rhetoric of Citizenship in Nineteenth Century America by P Joy Rouse Part 2 examines rhetorical changes in the culture that developed during that century The essays include The Popularization of Nineteenth Century Rhetoric Elocution and the Private Learner by Nan Johnson Rhetorical Power in the Victorian Parlor Godey s Lady s Book and the Gendering of Nineteenth Century Rhetoric by Nicole Tonkovich

Jane Addams and the Social Rhetoric of Democracy by Catherine Peaden The Divergence of Purpose and Practice on the Chataqua Keith Vawter's Self Defense by Frederick J Antczak and Edith Siemers and The Rhetoric of Picturesque Scenery A Nineteenth Century Epideictic by S Michael Halloran

Ruthless Criticism William Samuel Solomon, Robert Waterman McChesney, 1993 Ruthless Criticism was first published in 1993 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions Ruthless Criticism offers perspectives and subjects largely outside traditional historiography It broadens the concept of media history to include lesser studied media and offers alternative interpretations of traditional media This anthology of original research includes an array of scholarly and theoretical perspectives Each addresses specific topic within a specific era reflecting the diversity of U S mass media Solomon and McChesney begin by using critical theory and deconstruction to examine the meanings of print in the colonial era Subsequent chapters study the media ecology of the antebellum press the intense focus on profits of the post Civil War mainstream press gender images in the labor press the diversity of political views within the working class press and the development of a commercial press in the black community The essays concerning the twentieth century focus on the rise of a culture industry and include studies on the origins of the broadcast ratings system and the commercial broadcast system early television's portrayals of childhood the television's networks close ties with the federal government the government's key role in creating and developing the field of mass communication research and teenage girls popular culture from 1960-1968 as a formative influence on the feminist movement

The Optimum Utilization Of Knowledge Kenneth E. Boulding, Lawrence Senesh, 2019-06-26 We all have more knowledge than we use even so say the editors of this book ignorance often governs our actions Society continues to find ways to misuse knowledge from manipulating information to gain political power to restricting what ideas are explored on university campuses Thus when some of the best minds in the country met to focus on the optimum utilization of knowledge it was not an idle academic inquiry In these proceedings from that conference which was sponsored by the Academy of Independent Scholars the contributors examine several of the key aspects of learning the importance of knowledge in decision making the role of our educational system and other systems in producing and disseminating knowledge and the relationship between knowledge and the physiological psychological and cultural bases of the learning process The misuse of knowledge or the overuse of ignorance the authors note could threaten the existence of the entire planet if the kind of thinking exemplified by the nuclear arms race prevails

Classroom Combat, Teaching and Television Maurine Doerken, 1983

The Politics of Broadcasting Raymond Kuhn, 2023-12-22 The Politics of Broadcasting 1985 examines the state of broadcasting in a variety of Western democracies from a political viewpoint written at a time when new telecommunications and information technology revolutionised television and radio The book describes and analyses the problems faced by politicians and broadcasters in responding to these changing technological and political environments      Against Immediacy William Kaizen, 2016-07-05 Against Immediacy is a history of early video art considered in relation to television in the United States during the 1960s and 1970s. It examines how artists questioned the ways in which the people were ideologically figured by the commercial mass media. During this time artists and organizations including Nam June Paik, Juan Downey, and the Women's Video News Service challenged the existing limits of the one-to-many model of televisual broadcasting while simultaneously constructing more democratic bottom-up models in which the people mediated themselves. Operating at the intersection between art history and media studies, Against Immediacy connects early video art and the rise of the media screen in gallery-based art to discussions about participation and the activation of the spectator in art and electronic media, moving from video art as an early form of democratic media practice to its canonization as a form of high art.

Ill Effects Martin Barker, Julian Petley, 2013-08-21 Ill Effects is a radical re-examination of the whole media effects debate. It questions not only whether the media is capable of directly influencing people's views and actions but also whether the idea of effects is the most useful way of conceptualising the relationship between the media and audiences. Ill Effects looks at the reasons why the media are routinely blamed for horrific events such as the murders of James Bulger and Suzanne Capper and the Hungerford massacre, as well as for perceived trends such as the alleged death of the family and the rise of yob culture. The authors' concern goes beyond individual cases; they discuss the development and current state of play of research into media effects, the remarkable power of common sense notions of media effects, and the way in which the effects issue has become embroiled in debates about freedom of expression and censorship. They suggest how audiences really respond to media texts and argue that there is an urgent need for informed and interdisciplinary approaches to the study of the media.
