Sex, Breath, and Force Ellen Mortensen, 2006-01-01. Living in the post modern age, there is a growing sentiment of disenchantment in relation to the most facile aspects of dogmatic feminism. Nevertheless, the question of sexual difference still remains. Sex, Breath, and Force asks how we should approach such a questioning today, given the fall of the great narratives and the plethora of theoretical discourses in circulation. What are the conditions of possibility for thinking of sexual difference as a foundational problem in the age of technology? And how do the disciplines of social science, literary studies, philosophy, and film studies answer this challenge? This collection of essays provides a reassessment of the question of sexual difference, taking into account important shifts in feminist thought, post humanist theories, and queer studies. The contributors offer new and refreshing insights into the complex question of sexual difference from a post feminist perspective and how it is reformulated in various related areas of study, such as ontology, epistemology, metaphysics, biology, technology, and mass media.

Action Learning Wojciech W. Gasparski, 2017-11-30. Praxiology is the study of working and doing from the point of view of effectiveness. It has three components: analysis of concepts involving purposive actions; critique of modes of action from the viewpoint of efficiency; and normative advisory aspects in recommendations for increasing human efficacy. This sixth volume of the Praxiology series focuses on action learning. Learning from distinguishable action is surprisingly different than learning from a subject expert in human or book form For those who have worked with and in action learning the latest form is always distinguishably different from a former experience Action learning programs are not in general intended to tackle puzzles namely questions to which an answer may be said to exist even if that answer is difficult to find action learning is intended to help to develop the ability to tackle problems or opportunities of which different persons all experienced intelligent and motivated might well advocate different courses of action all reasonable The essentials of action learning according to this volume are there can be no learning unless the participant receives feedback about his/her performance participants learn only of their own volition and never at the will of others the volition to learn is most readily engendered by the lure of success or by the fear of calamity Building upon these essentials the authors view action learning as a process of inquiry beginning with the experience of not knowing what to do next and finding that an answer is not available from current expertise All chapters in this volume are sound contributions to the continuing debate on the processes of learning from distinguishable action Action Learning is intriguing reading for sociologists philosophers managers and researchers of all disciplines
