The Tectonics of middle North America Philip Burke King, 1954 The Great Rift Valleys of Pangea in Eastern North America: Tectonics, structure, and volcanism Peter M. LeTourneau, Paul Eric Olsen, 2003 The breakup of the Pangean supercontinent in the Triassic Jurassic age left great rift basins containing an extraordinary record of the physical and biological conditions which precipitated a major extinction event at the time These basins collectively form a rift province called the Central Atlantic Margin which spans more than 45 degrees of paleolatitude and records over 35 million years of Earth history Leading experts present a detailed review of the rift province s geology paleobiology and geophysics This extensive two volume work offers in depth coverage of the North American components of the Central Atlantic Magmatic Province In volume 1 leading researchers give thorough reviews and highlight recent advances in our understanding of the structural geology tectonics and volcanism of the Central Atlantic Magmatic Province The Tectonics of Middle North America Philip Burke King, 1951 Jurassic Magmatism and Tectonics of the North American Cordillera David M. The Tectonic Setting and Origin of Cretaceous Batholiths within the North American Cordillera Robert S. Hildebrand, Joseph B. Whalen, 2017-10-03 In this Special Paper Hildebrand and Whalen present a big picture paradigm busting synthesis that examines the tectonic setting temporal relations and geochemistry of many plutons within Cretaceous batholithic terranes of the North American Cordillera In addition to their compelling tectonic synthesis they argue that most of the batholiths are not products of arc magmatism as commonly believed but instead were formed by slab failure during and after collision They show that slab window and Precambrian TTG suites share many geochemical similarities with Cretaceous slab failure rocks. Geochemical and isotopic data indicate that the slab failure magmas were derived dominantly from the mantle and thus have been one of the largest contributors to growth of continental crust. The authors also note that slab failure plutons emplaced into the epizone are commonly associated with Cu-Au porphyries as well as Li-Cs-Ta pegmatites. Geology in the Siting of Nuclear Power Plants Allen W.
