Television The Business Behind The Box:

Television Les Brown, 1971 The Age of Television Martin Esslin, 2017-07-05 Having spent most of his career working with the British Broadcasting Corporation BBC Martin Esslin appraises American TV with the eyes of both a detached outsider and a concerned insider American popular culture writes Esslin has become the popular culture of the world at large American television is thus more than a purely social phenomenon It fascinates and in some instances frightens the whole world The Age of Television discusses television as an essentially dramatic form of communication pointing to the strengths and weaknesses that spring from its character It explores its impact on generations destined to grow up under its influence with such questions as how TV turns reality into fiction and fiction into reality Esslin considers the long term effects of television on our abilities to reason to read to create He asks if current programming on American television constitutes what we want and deserve and asks what we would change if we could These are but a handful of the questions Esslin probes in this penetrating analysis of contemporary television and its impact on our lives In his new introduction Esslin discusses changes in the media over the last two decades He explores the increasing number of television stations available the rise of boutique channels concentrating on news sports or film and the relationship between television and other forms of electronic media such as video games and the Internet Finally he considers the effect of these developments on our ability to concentrate our sensitivity to violence and even our artistic taste Most compelling of all is his final question Can the Age of Television with all its dangers yet become a golden age of cultural growth Martin Esslin is professor emeritus of drama at Stanford University His numerous critical works include Brecht The Man and his Work The Theatre of the Absurd An Anatomy of Drama and Artaud He cur The ABC Movie of the Week Michael McKenna, 2013-08-22 On September 23 1969 five years after the first made for television movie premiered the ABC network broadcast Seven in Darkness This was the first television film for an anthology show called the Tuesday Night Movie of the Week Dedicating ninety minutes of weekly airtime to a still emerging genre was a financial risk for the third place network a risk that paid off The films were so successful that in 1972 the network debuted The Wednesday Movie of the Week Although most of the movies are no longer remembered a handful are still fondly recalled by viewers today including Duel Brian s Song and The Night Stalker The series also showcased pilot films for many eventual series such as Alias Smith and Jones The Six Million Dollar Man and Starsky and Hutch By the end of both shows regular runs in the spring of 1975 the network had broadcast more than 200 made for television films In The ABC Movie of the Week Big Movies for the Small Screen Michael McKenna examines this programming experiment that transformed the television landscape and became a staple of broadcast programming for several years The author looks at how the revolving films showcased the right mixture of romantic comedy action horror and social relevance to keep viewers interested week after week McKenna also chronicles how the ratings success led to imitations from the other networks resulting in a saturation of television movies As a cultural touchstone for millions who experienced the first run and syndicated versions of these films The ABC Movie of the Week is a worthy subject of study Featuring a complete filmography of all 240 movies with credit information and plot summaries a chronology and a list of pilots both failed and successful this volume will be valuable to television historians and scholars as well as to anyone interested in one of the great triumphs of network programming

Action TV: Tough-Guys, Smooth Operators and Foxy Chicks Anna Gough-Yates, Bill Osgerby, Anna Gough Yates, 2013-10-18 From reruns of TV classics like The Avengers or Starsky and Hutch to soundtracks club nights and film remakes such as Mission Impossible II the action series is enjoying a popular revival Yet little attention has been paid to the history nature and enduring appeal of the action series and its place in popular culture past and present Action TV traces the development of the action series from its genesis in the 1950s From The Saint to Knight Rider contributors explore the key shows which defined the genre addressing issues of audiences and consumption gender and sexuality fashion and popular culture They examine the institutional and cultural factors influencing the action series and relate shifts in the genre to other forms of popular culture including film pop music fashion and popular literature Chapters include Of leather suits and kinky boots The Avengers style and popular culture Who loves ya baby Kojak action and the great society A lone crusader in a dangerous world heroics of science and technology in Knight Rider Angels in chains feminism femininity and consumer culture in Charlie's Angels Who's the cat that won't cop out Black masculinity in American action shows of the sixties and seventies

The Business of Media Distribution Jeff Ulin, 2012-12-06 Written by the insider who headed sales for Lucasfilm across distribution markets and managed the release of Star Wars Episode III this is the first book to show how all related media distribution markets including television video and online work together and independently to finance and maximize profits on productions It demystifies how an idea moves from concept to profits and how distribution quietly dominates an industry otherwise grounded in high profile elements production marketing creative finance law The book provides a unique apprenticeship to the business illuminating at a macro level how an idea can move from concept to generating 1 Billion relating theory and practice in the context of the maturation of global market segments and exposing the devil in the detail that impacts bottom line profits Producers media executives and entertainment attorneys in specific niches will benefit from this wide ranging look at the business across various distribution outlets including theatrical television airlines merchandising cable and home video

Play-by-Play Ronald A. Smith, 2003-05-22 Noted sports historian writes on the relationship of the media to college athletics Chosen as an Outstanding Academic Title for 2003 by

Choice Magazine The phenomenal popularity of college athletics owes as much to media coverage of games as it does to drum beating alumni and frantic undergraduates Play by play broadcasts of big college games began in the 1920s via radio a medium that left much to the listener s imagination and stoked interest in college football After World War II the rise of television brought with it network NCAA deals that reeked of money and fostered bitter jealousies between have and have not institutions In Play by Play Radio Television and Big Time College Sport noted author and sports insider Ronald A Smith examines the troubled relationship between higher education and the broadcasting industry the effects of TV revenue on college athletics notably football and the odds of achieving meaningful reform Beginning with the early days of radio Smith describes the first bowl game broadcasts the media image of Notre Dame and coach Knute Rockne and the threat broadcasting seemed to pose to college football attendance He explores the beginnings of television the growth of networks the NCAA decision to control football telecasts the place of advertising the role of TV announcers and the threat of NCAA Robin Hoods and the College Football Association to NCAA television control Taking readers behind the scenes he explains the culture of the college athletic department and reveals the many ways in which broadcasting dollars make friends in the right places Play by Play is an eye opening look at the political infighting invariably produced by the deadly combination of university administrators athletic czars and huge revenue

Online TV Catherine Johnson,2019-01-04 With growth in access to high speed broadband and 4G and increased ownership of smartphones tablets and internet connected television sets the internet has simultaneously begun to compete with and transform television Online TV argues that these changes create the conditions for an emergent internet era that challenges the language and concepts that we have to talk about television as a medium In a wide ranging analysis Catherine Johnson sets out a series of conceptual frameworks designed to provide a clearer language with which to analyse the changes to television in the internet era and to bring into focus the power dynamics of the online TV industry From providing definitions of online TV and the online TV industry to examining the ways in which technology rights interfaces and algorithms are used to control and constrain access to audiovisual content Online TV is a timely intervention into debates about contemporary internet and television cultures A must read for any students scholars and practitioners who want to understand and analyse the ways in which television is intertwining with and being transformed by the internet

Camp TV of the 1960s Isabel Cristina Pinedo,Wyatt D. Phillips,2023 Camp TV of the 1960s offers a comprehensive understanding of all of the many forms camp TV took during that critical decade In reevaluating the history of camp on television the authors reconsider the infantilized conceptualization of sixties television which has generally been characterized as the creative and cultural ebb between the 1950s Golden Age of television and the networks shift to relevance in the early 1970s Encompassing contributions from a broad range of media and television scholars that re consider programs like Batman The Monkees The Addams Family Bewitched F Troop The Beverly Hillbillies and Rowan

British camp television programs such as The Avengers the use of musical codes to convey camp humor even on black and white sets the role that the viewing strategies of queer communities played and continued to play even decades later and how camp's multivalence allowed for more conservative readings especially among older audiences which were critical for the move to mass camp throughout American culture by the early seventies Camp TV of the 1960s is essential reading for students and scholars in television studies and others interested in the history and theory of camp the 1960s or popular culture as well as fans of these well known but generally understudied television programs

Interdisciplinary Essays on Environment and Culture Luigi Manca, Jean-Marie Kauth, 2015-12-24 This is a collection of essays about the media the environment and the whole of humanity at the brink of extinction As the demands of overpopulation and of an unsustainable consumer economy dry up existing natural resources and destroy vital ecosystems that we need to survive the corporate controlled media saturate worldwide audiences with a barrage of hypnotic images and narratives to stimulate over consumption and to distract us from the consequences of rampant consumerism while remaining silent about the systematic destruction of the environment and our future Academicians from the across the sciences the social sciences the arts and the humanities engage in an interdisciplinary discussion informed by a vision of an interconnected humanity and focused on the role of the media in forging public discourse Contributors to the collection argue that today s media are failing humanity Rather than providing pictures of reality on which the world s citizens can act the corporate controlled media are widely used as instruments of commercial and political propaganda creating an immense web of images and narratives that their creators know to be not true fabrications designed to sell to manipulate in a sense to enslave worldwide audiences At the core of the discussion in this book is a utopian vision of one unified humanity billions of people whose destinies and dreams are imbricated and interdependent and who share the same world the same habitats It is a vision of a world that cherishes diversity but is also united a world where our differences are no longer a cause for conflict and where separate countries or separate ethnic or religious communities no longer have to compete or wage war to exploit available resources As extensions of humans the media can be instruments of salvation instead of destruction liberation instead of oppression But first we must recognize the challenges we face

Same Time, Same Station James L. Baughman, 2007-03-26 Outstanding Academic Title for 2007 Choice Magazine Ever wonder how American television came to be the much derided advertising heavy home to reality programming formulaic situation comedies hapless men and buxom scantily clad women Could it have been something different focusing instead on culture theater and performing arts In Same Time Same Station historian James L Baughman takes readers behind the scenes of early broadcasting examining corporate machinations that determined the future of television Split into two camps those who thought TV could meet and possibly raise the expectations of wealthier better educated post war consumers and those who believed success meant mimicking the products of movie houses and radio decision makers fought a battle of ideas that peaked in the 1950s just as TV became a central facet of daily life for most Americans Baughman s engagingly written account of the brief but contentious debate shows how the inner workings and outward actions of the major networks advertisers producers writers and entertainers ultimately made TV the primary forum for entertainment and information The tale of television s founding years reveals a series of decisions that favored commercial success over cultural aspiration
