Taking Flight Richard Hallion, 2003-05-08 The invention of flight represents the culmination of centuries of thought and desire Kites and rockets sparked our collective imagination Then the balloon gave humanity its first experience aloft though at the mercy of the winds The steerable airship that followed had more practicality yet a number of insurmountable limitations But the airplane truly launched the Aerial Age and its subsequent impact from the vantage of a century after the Wright Brother s historic flight on December 17 1903 has been extraordinary Richard Hallion a distinguished international authority on aviation offers a bold new examination of aircraft history stressing its global roots The result is an interpretive history of uncommon sweep complexity and warmth Taking care to place each technological advance in the context of its own period as well as that of the evolving era of air travel this ground breaking work follows the pre history of flight the work of balloon and airship advocates fruitless early attempts to invent the airplane the Wright brothers and other pioneers the impact of air power on the outcome of World War I and finally the transfer of prophecy into practice as flight came to play an ever more important role in world affairs both military and civil Making extensive use of extracts from the journals diaries and memoirs of the pioneers themselves and interspersing them with a wide range of rare photographs and drawings Taking Flight leads readers to the laboratories and airfields where aircraft were conceived and tested Forcefully yet gracefully written in rich detail and with thorough documentation this book is certain to be the standard reference for years to come on how humanity came to take to the sky and what the Aerial Age has meant to the world since da Vinci s first fantastical designs

Atmospheric Flight in the Twentieth Century P. Galison, A. Roland, 2013-03-07 All technologies differ from one another They are as varied as humanity's interaction with the physical world Even people attempting to do the same thing produce multiple technologies For example John H White discovered more than 1 000 patents in the 19th century for locomotive smokestacks Yet all technologies are processes by which humans seek to control their physical environment and bend nature to their purposes All technologies are alike The tension between likeness and difference runs through this collection of papers All focus on atmospheric flight a twentieth century phenomenon But they approach the topic from different disciplinary perspectives They ask disparate questions And they work from distinct agendas Collectively they help to explain what is different about aviation how it differs from other technologies and how flight itself has varied from one time and place to another The importance of this topic is manifest Flight is one of the defining technologies of the twentieth century Jay David Bolter argues in Turing's Man that certain technologies in certain ages have had the power not only to transform society but also to shape the way in which people understand their relationship with the physical world A defining technology says Bolter resembles a magnifying glass which collects and focuses seemingly disparate ideas in a culture into one bright sometimes piercing ray

The Rhodesian Air Force in Zimbabwe's War of Liberation, 1966-1980 Darlington Mutanda, 2016-11-10 This book evaluates the development of the Rhodesian Air Force during the Second Chimurenga or Bush War 1966-1980 Airpower in irregular conflict is effective at the tactical level because guerrilla warfare is not a purely military conflict The Rhodesian Air Force was deployed in a war winning versus a supporting role as a result of the shortage of manpower to deal with insurgency and almost all units of the Rhodesian Security Forces depended on its tactical effectiveness Technical challenges faced by the Air Force combined with the rate of guerrilla infiltration and the misuse of airpower to bomb guerrilla bases in neighboring countries largely negated

Race with the Wind Birch Matthews,2001 In the decades leading up to World War II air races were often the proving grounds for radical new aviation principles and designs The people and machines of air racing during this period made tremendous strides and contributed incredible new technologies aerodynamics powerplants and airframes This unique look at the key players and aircraft of the early 20th century s great air races examines and explains how innovative racing technologies found their way into future fighter and passenger aircraft Coverage of exciting races like the Schneider Trophy Pulitzer Trophy Race and the National Air Races an in depth look at their contributions to aeronautics exclusive line drawings illustrating the technologies and archival photography make this a must for air racing fans and aviation enthusiasts

FraNCe: The French Heritage of North Carolina Dudley Marchi,2016-07 There is a subtle but significant French heritage in North Carolina Towns such as Bath Beaufort New Bern and La Grange are testimony to the settlements of French Huguenots in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries The city of Fayetteville is named after the Marquis de Lafayette a French ally during the American Revolution The first European explorers to the North Carolina region were in fact French 1524 French Huguenots migrated to the state as early as 1690 and many North Carolinians have last names of French origin North Carolina has many other place names and remnants of French presence since the early colonial period This book traces the historical presence of the French in NC from the state s origins to the present and tells the story of a little known but important part of the state s cultural heritage Black and white photos and images An Aerospace Bibliography Air University (U.S.).
