Textiles In Archaeology:

Textiles in Archaeology John Peter Wild, 1988 Growing enthusiasm for handspinning and weaving as studio crafts and increasing awareness of the value of organic materials have led to wider interest in archaeological textiles Although textiles are not common finds textile implements are and this book shows how both contribute to our appreciation of a universal ancient craft Geographically this book is concerned with Britain and Europe and in time ranges from the neolithic to the medieval period The processes of spinning and weaving are explained and illustrated and the reader is taken through early textile manufacture Unusual textile terms are explained and illustrated in a glossary North European Symposium for Archaeological Textiles X Eva B. Andersson Strand, Margarita Gleba, Ulla Mannering, Cherine Munkholt, Maj Ringgard, 2009-12-11 The NESAT symposium has grown from the first meeting in 1981 which was attended by 23 scholars to over 100 at the tenth meeting that took place in Copenhagen in 2008 with virtually all areas of Europe represented The 50 papers from the conference presented here show the vibrance of the study of archaeological textiles today Examples studied come from the Bronze Age Neolithic the Iron Age Roman Viking the Middle Ages and post Medieval and from a wide range of countries including Norway Czech Republic Poland Greece Germany Lithuania Estonia and the Netherlands Modern techniques of analysis and examination are also discussed First Aid for the Excavation of Archaeological Textiles C.

Gillis, Marie-Louise Nosch, 2007-03-10 This small booklet is an important conservation guide It deals with the special care required in order to deal with these delicate fabrics during their excavation and recording It is included as an appendix in Ancient Textiles Production Crafts and Society Northern Archaeological Textiles Frances Pritchard, John Peter Wild, 2015-04-30 This volume presents the papers from the seventh North European Symposium for Archaeological Textiles NESAT held in Edinburgh in 1999 The themes covered demonstrate a variety of scholarship that will encourage anyone working in this important and stimulating area of archaeology From the golden robes of a Roman burial to the fashionable Viking in Denmark through to the early modern period and more technological aspects of textile research these twenty four papers five of which are in German provide a wealth of new information on the study of ancient textiles in northern Europe

Funerary Textiles in Situ Elsa Yvanez, Magdalena M. Wozniak, 2025-07-11 This open access book explores the role of textiles in death to investigate questions into how the body was prepared before the funeral how the body was seen and perceived by its relatives and community and the role of textiles in its metamorphosis into a deceased The volume's geographic coverage is broad encompassing areas where textile and skeletal conservation is optimal the ancient Nile Valley and areas where only minute fragments could be preserved adhering to metal objects The case studies cover Egypt Sudan Greece the Iberian Peninsula Scandinavia and Central Europe ranging from the 12th century BCE to the end of the 19th century CE Going beyond this geohistorical frameworks the book presents new methods for the study retrieval and conservation of funerary textiles in situ during excavations It offers useful tools for future research in both textile archaeology and bioarchaeology and promote interdisciplinary collaborations between the two fields for a better understanding of burial practices Contributors to this volume include experts from the fields of bioanthropology archaeology textile research and conservation

Multidisciplinary Approaches for the Investigation of Textiles and Fibres in the Archaeological Field Francesca Coletti, Christina Margariti, Vanessa Forte, Stella Spantidaki, 2024-11-15 This book is dedicated to the analytical methods and approaches applied to ancient textiles and fibres It offers an overview of textile archaeology as an archaeological discipline presenting its history and developments up to state of the art approaches in the study of textiles fibres It demonstrates how various fields of research have contributed to the development and growth of the discipline It establishes that fibre identification is a key element in ancient textile studies showing its importance in understanding a large variety of economic and social aspects of human societies However fibre identification in archaeological textiles is not a straightforward task mainly due to the vast variety of fibres people used in antiquity to make textiles and the more often than not poor condition of preservation of excavated textiles Currently comprehensive studies on more traditional fibre identification techniques such as Scanning Electron and Optical microscopy spectroscopic techniques e g Fourier Transform Infrared spectroscopy FTIR Raman and recent advances in DNA and paleoproteomics along with experiments on artificial ageing and deterioration of textiles constitute a promising path down the exploration and analysis of archaeological textiles This book shows how these techniques have advanced the discipline of textile archaeology and contributed to our understanding of the past This volume brings together scholars investigating fibres in a holistic way by the incorporation of a variety of methods in order to improve the current methodological approaches in the study and conservation of textiles and related material Chapter 6 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com

Prehistoric Textiles E. J.W. Barber, 1991 This monograph attempts to revise present ideas of the origins and early development of textiles in Europe and the Near East Using linguistic techniques as well as methods from palaeobiology it demonstrates that spinning and pattern weaving existed far earlier than has been supposed

Textile Production and Consumption in the Ancient Near East Marie-Louise Nosch, Henriette Koefoed, Eva Andersson Strand, 2013-01-11 In the past textile production was a key part of all ancient societies The Ancient Near East stands out in this respect with the overwhelming amount of documentation both in terms of raw materials line of production and the distribution of finished products The thirteen intriguing chapters in Textile Production and Consumption in the Ancient Near East describe the developments and changes from household to standardised industrialised and centralised productions which take place in the region They discuss the economic social and cultural impact of textiles on ancient society through the application of textile tool studies experimental testing context studies and epigraphical as well as iconographical sources Together they demonstrate that the textile industries production technology consumption and innovations are crucial to and therefore provide an in depth view of ancient societies during this period Geographically the contributions cover

Archaeological Textiles Penelope Walton, Gillian Eastwood, 1988

Gleba, Sarah Hitchens, Gabriella Longhitano, 2022-07-20 Over the past 30 years research on archaeological textiles has developed into an important field of scientific study It has greatly benefited from interdisciplinary approaches which combine the application of advanced technological knowledge to ethnographic textual and experimental investigations In exploring textiles and textile processing such as production and exchange in ancient societies archaeologists with different types and quality of data have shared their knowledge thus contributing to well established methodology In this book the papers highlight how researchers have been challenged to adapt or modify these traditional and more recently developed analytical methods to enable extraction of comparable data from often recalcitrant assemblages Furthermore they have applied new perspectives and approaches to extend the focus on less investigated aspects and artefacts The chapters embrace a broad geographical and chronological area ranging from South America and Europe to Africa and from the 11th millennium BC to the 1st millennium AD Methodological considerations are explored through the medium of three different themes focusing on tools textiles and fibres and culture and identity This volume constitutes a reflection on the status of current methodology and its applicability within the wider textile field Moreover it drives forward the methodological debates around textile research to generate new and stimulating conversations about the future of textile archaeology
