Literature and Contingency Christina Lupton, Carsten Meiner, 2020-05-21 This collection features leading literary critics and explores the role of language in thinking about the ways in which the world might be otherwise and the history of contingency as a longstanding literary concept The defining feature of contingency lies in the suggestion that things that have already happened might have been otherwise Central to late twentieth century European critical and sociological thinking that argument is at the centre of this volume The contributors to this volume explore subjects including how literature philosophy and history all cope with contingency the existence of contingency in genres as diverse as enlightenment fables Aristotle Hardy Jane Austen and post war American literature the contingency of old age and the poetics of contingency As the chapters here illustrate our efforts to understand each other involve a constant opening onto being otherwise an enterprise in which the role of the literary critic remains key Of interest to scholars across a range of literary genres this volume would also have applications for philosophy researchers exploring the metaphysics of contingency This book was originally published as a special issue of Textual Practice Material Culture and Text Christopher Tilley, 2014-10-30 Originally published in 1991 this is the first book length exploration of post structuralist discourse theory in archaeology It tackles the most basic problem of historical and archaeological analysis the relationship between text and artefact in an analysis of prehistoric art fusing theory and the practice of interpretation to create a fresh framework for understanding the relationship between past and present Focusing on a collection of rock carvings from northern Sweden the author shows how alternative conceptualizations of the material from structuralist hermeneutic and structural Marxist frameworks substantially alter our understanding of their meaning and significance Engaging readers in an interpretive process this book is for specialists in archaeology anthropology art history and cultural studies A Postmodern Reader Joseph P. Natoli, Linda Hutcheon, 1993-01-01 These readings are organized into four sections The first explores the wellsprings of the debates in the relationship between the postmodern and the enterprise it both continues and contravenes modernism Here philosophers social and political commentators as well as cultural and literary analysts present controversial background essays on the complex history of postmodernism The readings in the second section debate the possibility or desirability of trying to define the postmodern given its cultural agenda of decentering challenging even undermining the guiding master narratives of Western culture The readings in the third section explore postmodernism s complicated complicity with these very narratives while the fourth section moves from theory to practice in order to investigate in a variety of fields the common denominators of the postmodern condition in action
