The 1986 Defense Budget Studies In Defense Policy

Alfred A. Baumeister

The 1986 Defense Budget Studies In Defense Policy:

Shaping American Military Capabilities after the Cold War Richard Lacquement, 2003-02-28 For more than 40 years U S defense policy and the design of military capabilities were driven by the threat to national security posed by the Soviet Union and its allies As the Soviet Union collapsed analysts wondered what effect this dramatic change would have upon defense policy and the military capabilities designed to support it Strangely enough this development would ultimately have little effect on our defense policy Over a decade later American forces are a smaller but similar version of their Cold War predecessors The author argues that despite many suggestions for significant change the bureaucratic inertia of comfortable military elites has dominated the defense policy debate and preserved the status quo with only minor exceptions This inertia raises the danger that American military capabilities will be inadequate for future warfare in the information age In addition such legacy forces are inefficient and inappropriately designed for the demands of frequent and important antiterrorist and peace operations Lacquement offers extensive analysis concerning the defense policymaking process from 1989 to 2001 including in particular the 2001 Quadrennial Defense Review This important study also provides a set of targeted policy recommendations that can help solve the identified problems in preparing for future wars and in better training for peace operations

Senate. Committee on the Budget, 1987 Japan's Defense Policy and Bureaucratic Politics, 1976-2007 Takao

Sebata, 2010-06-05 This book examines Japan's military expansion and the decision making of her defense policy between 1976 and 2007 It explores how the bureaucratic politics model applies to the case of Japan's defense policy and demonstrates some similarities and differences between Japanese Concurrent Resolution on the Budget United States. Senate. Committee on the Budget, 1987 Preventing the New Morbidity Alfred A. Baumeister, 1988 A Republic No More Jay Cost, 2016-07-12 After the Constitutional Convention Benjamin Franklin was asked Well Doctor what have we got a Republic or a Monarchy Franklin's response A Republic if you can keep it This book argues we couldn't keep it A true republic privileges the common interest above the special interests To do this our Constitution established an elaborate system of checks and balances that disperses power among the branches of government which it places in conflict with one another The Framers believed that this would keep grasping covetous factions from acquiring enough power to dominate government Instead only the people would rule Proper institutional design is essential to this system Each branch must manage responsibly the powers it is granted as well as rebuke the other branches when they go astray This is where subsequent generations have run into trouble we have overloaded our government with more power than it can handle The Constitution s checks and balances have broken down because the institutions created in 1787 cannot exercise responsibly the powers of our sprawling immense twenty first century government The result is the triumph of special interests over the common interest James Madison called this factionalism We know it as political corruption Corruption today is so widespread that our government is not really a republic but rather a special interest democracy Everybody may participate yes but the contours of public policy depend not so much on the common good as on the push and pull of the various interest groups encamped in Washington DC Winged Shield, Winged Sword 1950-1997 Bernard C. Nalty, 2003-11 Describes and analyzes in the context of national policy and international rivalries the evolution of land based air power since the United States Army in 1907 established an Aeronautical Division Provides a clearer understanding of the central role of the Air Force in current American defense policy
