Dr. Louise Leenen

Surprise Level 1 Blue:

Basic Human-robot Interaction David O Johnson, 2024-02-21 The book's content is designed to provide practical guidance and insights for conducting experiments in Human Robot Interaction HRI and publishing the results in scientific journals. It includes a detailed explanation of how to conduct HRI experiments and what to do and what not to do to get an article accepted for publication. It is tailored to those seeking to deepen their understanding of HRI methodologies, statistical measurements, and research design. The case studies and examples featured in the book focus on interactions between social robots and specific demographics such as children and older adults, making it relevant for individuals working in healthcare, education, and related domains. Also covered are common statistical measurements used in HRI research and quantitative, qualitative, and meta-analyses. The concepts are illustrated with several international case studies of interactions between social robots and children and older adults and robot learning instead of programming. The final chapter explores current trends in HRI and provides insights into what to look for in the coming years. It includes an extensive reference section to help HRI researchers in all these areas. This book will appeal to an international audience of advanced students, researchers, industry, and others who are actively engaged or interested in the field of HRI. Bulletin, 1924 ICCWS 2018 13th

International Conference on Cyber Warfare and Security Dr. Louise Leenen, 2018-03-08 These proceedings represent the work of researchers participating in the 13th International Conference on Cyber Warfare and Security ICCWS 2018, which is being hosted this year by the National Defense University in Washington DC USA on 8-9 March 2018. Spotlight on Writing Glynis Hannell, 2009 This extremely practical resource includes worksheets that can be used as instant educationally appropriate language activities for pupils of various ages and abilities but are written specifically with the inclusive classroom in mind. Selective Visual Attention Liming Zhang, Weisi Lin, 2013-03-15 Visual attention is a relatively new area of study combining a number of disciplines: artificial neural networks, artificial intelligence, vision science, and psychology. The aim is to build computational models similar to human vision in order to solve tough problems for many potential applications, including object recognition, unmanned vehicle navigation, and image and video coding and processing. In this book, the authors provide an up-to-date and highly applied introduction to the topic of visual attention, aiding researchers in creating powerful computer vision systems. Areas covered include the significance of vision research, psychology, and computer vision; existing computational visual attention models; and the authors' contributions on visual attention models and applications in various image and video processing tasks. This book is geared for graduates, students, and researchers in neural networks, image processing, machine learning, computer vision, and other areas of biologically inspired model building and applications. The book can also be used by practicing engineers looking for techniques involving the application of image coding, video processing, machine vision, and brain-like robots to real-world systems. Other students and researchers with interdisciplinary interests will also find this book appealing. Provides a key knowledge boost to developers of image processing applications Is unique in emphasizing the practical utility of attention mechanisms Includes a number of real world examples that readers can implement in their own work robot navigation and object selection image and video quality assessment image and video coding Provides codes for users to apply in practical attentional models and mechanisms Programming for Data Science Mr. Rohit Manglik,2024-03-02 EduGorilla Publication is a trusted name in the education sector committed to empowering learners with high quality study materials and resources Specializing in competitive exams and academic support EduGorilla provides comprehensive and well structured content tailored to meet the needs of students across various streams and levels Language Development in the Digital Age Mila

Vulchanova,Giosuè Baggio,Angelo Cangelosi,Linda Smith,2017-10-18 The digital age is changing our children s lives and childhood dramatically New technologies transform the way people interact with each other the way stories are shared and distributed and the way reality is presented and perceived Parents experience that toddlers can handle tablets and apps with a level of sophistication the children s grandparents can only envy The question of how the ecology of the child affects the acquisition of competencies and skills has been approached from different angles in different disciplines In linguistics psychology and neuroscience the central question addressed concerns the specific role of exposure to language Two influential types of theory have been proposed On one view the capacity to learn language is hard wired in the human brain linguistic input is merely a trigger for language to develop On an alternative view language acquisition depends on the linguistic environment of the child and specifically on language input provided through child adult communication and interaction The latter view further specifies that factors in situated interaction are crucial for language learning to take place In the fields of information technology artificial intelligence and robotics a current theme is to create robots that develop as children do and to establish how embodiment and interaction support language learning in these machines In the field of human machine interaction research is investigating whether using a physical robot rather than a virtual agent or a computer based video has a positive effect on language development The Research Topic will address the following issues What are the methodological challenges faced by research on language acquisition in the digital age How should traditional theories and models of language acquisition be revised to account for the multimodal and multichannel nature of language learning in the digital age How should existing and future technologies be developed and transformed so as to be most beneficial for child language learning and cognition Can new technologies be tailored to support child growth and most importantly can they be designed in order to enhance specifically vulnerable children s language learning environment and opportunities What kind of learning mechanisms are involved How can artificial intelligence and robotics technologies as robot tutors support language development These questions and issues can only be addressed by means of an interdisciplinary approach that aims at developing new methods of data collection and analysis in cross sectional and longitudinal perspectives We welcome contributions addressing these questions from an interdisciplinary perspective both

Investigation of Jervey Plantation, Christ Church Parish, Charleston County, South Carolina Michael Trinkley,Debi Hacker,2004 Is High Debt Constraining Monetary Policy? Evidence from Inflation Expectations Mr. Luis Brandao Marques,Marco Casiraghi,Mr. R. G Gelos,R. Gelos,Olamide Harrison,Gunes Kamber,2023-06-30 This paper examines whether high government debt levels pose a challenge to containing inflation It does so by assessing the impact of government debt surprises on inflation expectations in advanced and emerging market economies It finds that debt surprises raise long term inflation expectations in emerging market economies in a persistent way but not in advanced economies The effects are stronger when initial debt levels are already high when inflation levels are initially high and when debt dollarization is significant By contrast debt surprises have only modest effects in economies with inflation targeting regimes Increased debt levels may complicate the fight against inflation in emerging market economies with high and dollarized debt levels and weaker monetary policy frameworks Interviews with North Korean Defectors Lim Il,Adam Zulawnik,2021-07-21 Originally compiled and written by North Korean defector and author Lim Il this English language edition thoroughly annotated by Dr Adam Zulawnik is a fascinating collection of 34 interviews with highly prominent North Korean defectors residing in South Korea ranging from religious figures to artists politicians North Korea experts and even divers and subway train operators The 33 interviews herein are listed chronologically according to the interviewees date of arrival to South Korea and span almost 70 years The book also includes six special columns addressing key issues pertaining to North Korean defectors and their lives in South Korea such as the relationship between North Korean defectors and their South Korean counterparts South Korean defectors to North Korea nomenclature how North Korean defectors have been referred to in South Korean society over time arrival and settlement provisions from the South Korean government the nuanced difference between defectors defector residents and the displaced North Korean defector residents and their position in South Korean politics and a short biography of five notable North Korean defector residents who were not interviewed The English translation also contains an exclusive 34th interview with Lim Il the source text author which was carried out towards the end of the project in October 2020 The book is a valuable testament to North Korean defector residents and unique in that it provides a candid account of each individual s experience It will prove to be especially useful to students and scholars seeking to understand the complex dynamics of North Korean society and the status of exiles in South Korea and a vital resource for students of Korean Studies Emotions as Key Drivers of Consumer Behaviors: A Multidisciplinary Perspective, 2nd edition Debora Bettiga,Giuliano Noci,Omneya Yacout,2025-09-16 Consumers not only make rational decisions but also emotional ones Research now recognizes the significance of diverse neglected factors such as emotions affect arousal and pleasure in appraisal and has identified processes and behaviors that do not fit with the traditional view of acting as a result of a purely deliberate process Consumers behaviors and choices are grounded both in

consumer beliefs and judgements and in experiences and emotions Individuals more broadly bring their perceptions values feelings and cognitive schemes to bear in interpreting the world In this context unconscious physiological manifestations can offer indications as to how people evaluate filter and react to external stimuli What is expressed by the conscious mind indeed does not represent a full and perfect representation of the actual needs and wishes of individuals Understanding consumer behaviors has long been a challenging endeavor due to different variables affecting decision making mechanisms and the difficulty of measuring them It requires indeed a comprehension of both the cognitive information processing mechanisms and of the affective and experiential systems of individuals Moreover it demands an appreciation of the rich and deep interplay between cognitive and affective processes Understanding consumers emotions can inform practitioners on how to effectively communicate with their target audience whether internal or external in order to elicit attention engagement and positive emotional responses and to build emotional connections Human stress engagement cognitive and emotional responses may be taken into account in the development of products and services by understanding consumers responses and experience with them This has a deep impact at the organizational level in terms of marketing strategies putting the consumer at the center of the whole organization This Research Topic aims to disseminate knowledge on the role of emotions in consumer behavior throughout the purchasing process while also allowing for dialogue between disciplines such as psychology organizational behavior marketing neuroscience bioscience and design Authors are encouraged to submit empirical theoretical and systematic review papers on themes including but not limited to the role of emotions in consumer behavior throughout the purchasing process neurophysiological methods to detect consumers emotions affective drivers of choice hedonic consumption and individual experience characterization classification and measurement of emotions the effect of positive emotions and negative emotions on the appraisal process the role of anticipated and transient emotions in consumer choices customer centric marketing strategies consumers expression of emotions on social media consumer emotions during online service encounters consumer emotions after negative service incidences antecedents to brand love and brand hate consumer emotions in ethical consumption contexts

Credit, Securitization and Monetary Policy

Mr.Andrea Pescatori,Mr.Juan Sole,2016-08-16 We show evidence that interest rate hikes slowdown loan growth but lead intermediation to migrate from banks balance sheets to non banks via increased securitization activity As such higher interest rates have the potential for unintended consequences raising systemic risk rather than lowering it by pushing more intermediation activity to more weakly regulated sectors In the past this increased securitization activity was driven primarily by private label securitization On the other hand the government sponsored entities like Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae appear to react to higher policy rates by cutting back on their securitization activity but expanding loans to the Federal Home Loan Bank system

Coping with Surprise in Great Power Conflicts

Mark F. Cancian, 2018-03-23 Surprise has always been an element of warfare but the return of great power competition and the high level threat that it poses gives urgency to thinking about surprise now Because the future is highly uncertain and great powers have not fought each other for over 70 years surprise is highly likely in a future great power conflict This study therefore examines potential surprises in a great power conflict particularly in a conflict's initial stages when the interaction of adversaries technologies prewar plans and military doctrines first becomes manifest It is not an attempt to project the future Rather it seeks to do the opposite explore the range of possible future conflicts to see where surprises might lurk
