Surveillance Of Agricultural Price And Trade Policy In Latin America During Major Policy Reforms:

Surveillance of Agricultural Price and Trade Policy in Latin America During Major Policy Reforms Alberto Valdés,1996-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper No 350 This paper uses an econometric analysis model to examine the distribution across different socioeconomic groups of Malawi s public spending on education The analysis shows the changes in distribution before and after the country adopted a series of education reforms in 1994 Surveillance of Agricultural Price and Trade Policies Alberto Valdés,Barry Schaeffer,1996-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 326 Describes the condition of young children in Sub Saharan Africa calls attention to their plight and examines strategies for addressing their condition The paper describes the World Bank s early childhood development initiative which focuses on the neglected but critical development age group that falls between birth and school enrollment age and which regards child development as the holistic formation of the child rather than an extension of traditional schooling downward Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Latin America Kym Anderson,Alberto Valdes,2008-10-02 The vast majority of the world s poorest households depend on farming for their livelihood During the 1960s and 1970s most developing countries imposed pro urban and anti agricultural policies while many high income countries restricted agricultural imports and subsidized their farmers Both sets of policies inhibited economic growth and poverty alleviation in developing countries Although progress has been made over the past two decades to reduce those policy biases many trade and welfare reducing price distortions remain between agriculture and other sectors as well as within the agricultural sector of both rich and poor countries Comprehensive empirical studies of the disarray in world agricultural markets first appeared approximately 20 years ago Since then the OECD has provided estimates each year of market distortions in high income countries but there has been no comparable estimates for the world s developing countries This volume is the second in a series other volumes cover Africa Asia and Europe s transition economies that not only fills that void for recent years but extends the estimates in a consistent and comparable way back in time and provides analytical narratives for scores of countries that shed light on the evolving nature and extent of policy interventions over the past half century Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Latin America provides an overview of the evolution of distortions to agricultural incentives caused by price and trade policies in the economies of South America plus the Dominican Republic Nicaragua and Mexico Together these countries constitute about 80 percent of the region s population agricultural output and overall GDP Sectoral trade and exchange rate policies in the region have changed greatly since the 1950s and there have been substantial reforms especially in the 1980s Nonetheless numerous price distortions in this region remain others have been added and there have even been some policy reversals in recent years The new empirical indicators in these country studies provide a strong evidence based foundation for assessing the successes and failures of the past and for evaluating policy options for the years ahead Agricultural and Rural Development Policy in Latin America Alain De Janvry,Nigel David Key,Elisabeth Sadoulet,1997-01-01 This study analyzes the significance of new economic context in Latin America and the Caribbean for the design of policies for the agricultural sector In addition it analyzes and assesses recent trends in agricultural development policy in Latin America to identify and synthesize new policy directions and to highlight emerging challenges and avenues for policy innovation The main conclusion of the study is that Latin American agricultural and rural development policy is at a turning point that will require bold new initiatives to improve the production performance of agriculture reduce rural poverty protect the natural resource base of the sector and ensure the political sustainability of economic growth This will require a pro active set of interventions designed at restoring the specificity of sectoral agricultural policy while maintaining consistency with the macro reforms Publisher s description

Russian Trade Policy Reform for WTO Accession Harry G. Broadman,1998-01-01 Russia has manifested considerable interest in accession to the World Trade Organization WTO This volume contains four policy papers that focus on the most prominent topics during the ongoing WTO accession process 1 the dispersion of Russia s tariff structure 2 trade and investment in the service sectors 3 the treatment of state trading enterprises and 4 the policy regime governing foreign direct investment Bringing the Russian Federation into the rules based WTO system is an objective broadly shared by the world community Accession to the WTO comes at a critical juncture for the Russian government to focus on many important policy issues to stimulate growth As part of the process of making liberalization commitments as required by the existing members of the WTO accession provides an opportunity to lock in reforms

Trade Policy Options for Chile Glenn W. Harrison,Thomas Fox Rutherford,David G. Health Care Financing George Schieber,1997-01-01 Spanish edition World Bank Technical Paper No 345S This report examines specific policies for achieving sustainable development of the mining industry in the countries of Latin America and the Caribbean The report highlights the importance of the mining sector to national economies of the region and discusses World Bank assistance in formulating policy Also available in English ISBN 0 8213 3816 1 Stock no 13816 School Enrollment Decline in Sub-Saharan Africa Joseph W. B. Bredie,Girindre K. Beeharry,1998-01-01 The overarching objective of the World Bank s assistance to Sub Saharan African countries is poverty reduction through sustained economic growth at a high level and improved social services Past experience shows that a minimum level of educational attainment has been a prerequisite for the success of such a strategy The current level of education development has been low and the development of primary education has stagnated and even declined in some countries since the early 1980s This paper examines the likely causes for deteriorating enrollment rates in Africa It looks at the constraints in the demand for schooling and gives possible reasons for stagnation Health Care in Uganda Paul Hutchinson,Demissie Habte,Mary Mulusa,1999-01-01 The government of Uganda faces a multitude of challenges in the health care arena from ensuring that health care services are delivered in the most equitable manner to structuring the health care delivery system to be most effective to waging campaigns against the leading causes of mortality and morbidity The government needs the best information available on existing conditions in order to devise strategies to successfully meet these challenges This technical paper summarizes the results of three research efforts concerning current health care issues in Uganda Its purpose is to summarize key actions and identify new challenges In Part I Equity of Access to Health Services in Uganda The Effects of Income Gender Proximity to Services and Quality of Care the author examines a number of factors that affect access to health services including quality of services and income Part II of this technical paper Decentralization of Health Services in Uganda Moving Toward Improved Delivery of Services summarizes the key actions that have been undertaken during the decentralization of Uganda s health sector and identifies challenges that are emerging during this process Part III Malaria A Priority Health Problem summarizes the status of malaria control in Uganda and highlights some of the key issues that need to be addressed to further strengthen malaria control efforts This paper should prove useful to those working in Uganda and in other countries facing similar policy changes to anticipate the challenges as they seek to improve the quality of health and other public services Economies Of China And India, The: Cooperation And Conflict (In 3 Volumes) Manmohan Agarwal,Jing Wang,2016-12-29 China and India the two largest developing countries are developing rapidly both inside themselves and towards global markets Are these two economies dual or dueling This 3 volume set tries to answer this question by providing comprehensive analyses scoping varied economic issues This volume set covers both China s and India s strategies and objectives in international governance their bilateral and multilateral trade agreement negotiations financial liberalization growth prospects rural development and agriculture income distribution labor market mechanism manufacturing and competitiveness upgrading as well as environmental and other social issues The set collects papers most unpublished until now written by Chinese and Indian researchers who have rich experiences and strong backgrounds in policy analyses and are well connected to Chinese and Indian policy makers Thus these papers contain valuable first hand information about China's and India's development strategies This makes this volume set an essential source of reference for China India comparisons and studies

Economic Growth with Equity Diana Cook,1999 Ukraine's economy has been slipping backwards for nearly a decade resulting in a significant fall in the living standards of the Ukrainian people Putting Ukraine back on the path to prosperity will require policy makers to stop letting economic crises dictate the policy agenda Short term problems need to be dealt with in the context of a longer term strategy What strategy should Ukraine follow This report identifies and evaluates three alternatives all of which are under active consideration today as Ukraine considers what to do after ten years of halting reforms and economic decline Economic Growth with Equity evaluates each strategy in terms of its probable impact on fiscal balances inflation the current account deficit economic growth employment and equity The report makes recommendations on the best strategy to help Ukraine achieve its potential and recover from the present depression

Sri Lanka's Rubber Industry Yusuf Choudhry,Douglas W. Lister,1997 World Bank Technical Paper No 359 As the telecommunications sector evolves toward a more competitive environment in which the private actors become the main players it is essential to develop policies that will reduce the disparities between urban and rural telecommunications services This report provides a comprehensive analysis of the technical and financial parameters that have to be considered in formulating such policies It presents an array of options for commercial operation of rural telecommunications and challenges the general perception that rural telecommunications services are unprofitable It demonstrates that services can be economically delivered to rural areas at affordable prices while simultaneously providing reasonable financial returns to investors A planning tool kit is included that assists in the design of the various options

India's Public Distribution System Rokkam Radharkrishna,K. Subbarao,1997-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 382 This technical paper compares and contrasts the governance and regulation of new style power pools in Australia Canada Norway Sweden and the United Kingdom These trading markets in electricity commodities and services are explored in various ways The authors review the basic governance models compare decisionmakers in the industry examine market surveillance methods used and explore the role of government and the regulator The paper emphasizes the lessons that can be learned from international experiences

Design of Social Funds Deepa Narayan-Parker,Katrinka Ebbe,1997-01-01 Annotation World Bank Discussion Paper No 375 Social funds have proved to be important instruments for reaching the poor using community based strategies Yet while there have been innovations in the design of these funds the projects are much less participatory and demand oriented than is commonly believed This paper examines the extent to which social fund subprojects are designed to support community participation demand orientation and investment in local organizational capacity to achieve sustainability at the community level      Management and Resolution of Banking Crises Jose de Luna-Martinez, 2000-01-01 WBI Learning Resources Series Water is a vital element for agricultural production and for economic development in general However the spatial and temporal distribution of water in Mexico restrains its use Because of this distribution it has been necessary to build a large infrastructure to capture store and allot this element among water users Around the world countries that once promoted more government involvement in irrigation management are adopting new policies that do just the opposite creating incentives for farmers to take over the management of operations and maintenance while government agencies focus on improving the management of water at the main system level Is this just another management fad or will the pendulum that is now swinging toward greater management control by farmers soon swing back the other way toward greater state control This volume reports on four countries where the state s role in irrigation management has undergone fundamental change and where the result has been a much greater management role for farmers These studies address the political antecedents of participatory irrigation management PIM policies the process of implementing the policies and the second generation challenges of sustaining PIM These experiences will prove useful to policymakers and irrigation professionals who are facing similar challenges in their own countries      Intellectual Property Rights and Economic Development Carlos Alberto Primo Braga, Carsten Fink, Claudia Paz Sepulveda, 2000 Over the course of history different legal instruments for protecting intellectual property have emerged These instruments differ in their subject matter extent of protection and field of application reflecting society s objective to balance the interests of creators and consumers for different types of intellectual works These legal instruments are just one of the pieces that form a national system of intellectual property protection Also crucial to the system s overall effectiveness are the institutions administering these instruments the mechanisms available for enforcing IPRs and the rules regarding the treatment of non nationals To address some of the issues concerning IPRs this paper defines what they are and attempts to evaluate the relationship between the protection of intellectual property and economic activity in developing countries It also summarizes the economic effects of IPRs in terms of creation and diffusion of knowledge and information and market structure and prices Furthermore it discusses the reformation of IPRs regimes and makes recommendations for their administration and enforcement This paper consolidates some of the research from the World Development Report 1998 1999 Knowledge for Development and some contributions made at an Internet moderated conference conducted by the Bank s TechNet program It will be of interest to governments investors and international organizations      Ghana Shiyen Chao, 1999-01-01 Ghana is an extremely diverse country ethnically culturally ecologically and economically Women and men play different roles undertake different activities and face different constraints Gender based differences in their activities and practices result from existing gender inequalities Because these gender differences are often fundamental to men and women s livelihoods understanding them is essential to designing policies and projects that will effectively reduce gender inequalities and promote sustainable development A growing body of literature indicates that reducing gender inequalities and increasing women's access to productive resources greatly improves both welfare and economic productivity. Despite recent gains in some areas, significant gender inequalities continue to limit women's capabilities and constrain their ability to participate in and contribute to Ghana's economy. This report examines key gender inequalities and gender-based differences in economic activities, opportunities, and constraints, focusing on two broad areas: the links between gender, economic productivity, and poverty; and the development of human capital. It is the result of the World Bank's recognition of the need to understand gender issues in order to develop strategies to deal with them and support the government's program to develop a gender strategy. In addition, it is intended to further the dialogue between the Bank, the government, other donors, and nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) on how to reduce or eliminate gender-specific constraints on economic development in Ghana.

East Asia Corporations, 2000. East Asian corporations differ from their counterparts in other countries in important ways. Before the recent financial crisis, these differences were viewed as one of the reasons for the success of East Asian economies. The crisis altered that view, and many scholars now argue that the weak corporate governance and financing structures of East Asian corporations are partly to blame for the recent crisis. This paper reviews several features of East Asian corporations, showing that they have high leverage and concentrated ownership, are typically affiliated with business groups, and operate in multiple industries. These characteristics affected the performance of corporations prior to the crisis, as well as their ability to deal with its aftermath. Each economy's level of development also affected how these characteristics interacted with firm performance and valuation. Finally, the concentration of ownership in the hands of a few large families may have influenced economies' institutional development.
