The Politicization of Safety Jane K. Stoeber, 2019-02-26 A look at gun control campus sexual assault immigration and more that considers the future of responses to domestic violence Domestic violence is commonly assumed to be a bipartisan nonpolitical issue with politicians of all stripes claiming to work to end family violence Nevertheless the Violence Against Women Act expired for over 500 days between 2012 and 2013 due to differences between the U S Senate and House demonstrating that legal protections for domestic abuse survivors are both highly political and highly vulnerable Racial and gender politics the move toward criminalization reproductive justice concerns gun control debates and political interests are increasingly shaping responses to domestic violence demonstrating the need for greater consideration of the interplay of politics domestic violence and how the law works in people's lives The Politicization of Safety provides a critical historical perspective on domestic violence responses in the United States It grapples with the ways in which child welfare systems and civil and criminal justice responses intersect and considers the different overlapping ways in which survivors of domestic abuse are forced to cope with institutionalized discrimination based on race gender sexual orientation and immigration status The book also examines movement politics and the feminist movement with respect to domestic violence policies The tensions discussed in this book similar to those involved in the metoo movement include questions of accountability reckoning redemption healing and forgiveness What is the future of feminism and the movements against gender based violence and domestic violence Readers are invited to question assumptions about how society and the legal system respond to intimate partner violence and to challenge the domestic violence field to move beyond old paradigms and contend with larger justice issues Landmine Monitor Report 2003, 2003

The Costs and effectiveness of neonatal intensive care, Breast Cancer: the Unplanned Journey Beverly Stacy Dittmer, 2011-09-29 Psychoanalysis, Historiography, and the Nazi Camps Dan Stone, 2024-07-10 In the postwar years Dutch survivors Eddy de Wind Louis Micheels and Elie A Cohen who went on to become practicing psychoanalysts penned accounts of their survival of the Nazi camps Their sober assessments contrast sharply with those by Bruno Bettelheim and Viktor Frankl which emphasized decisiveness positive thinking and resistance missing the fact that many Holocaust victims with those characteristics or other qualities did not survive De Wind's Micheels and Cohen's accounts are more sober self critical and shaped by analytical practice By analyzing them anew and comparing them with accounts by female doctors who survived Block 10 in Auschwitz this book argues that their theories of survival accord with contemporary sensibilities in psychoanalysis and Holocaust historiography Psychoanalytic concepts have changed over time in response to greater understanding of the Holocaust and recent Holocaust historiography makes us more receptive to insights that were unfashionable in the first postwar decades Healing the Rising Sun, Falling Skies Jeffrey Cox, 2014-03-20 Following the attack on Pearl Harbor the Japanese offensive in the Far East seemed unstoppable Allied forces engaged in a futile attempt to halt their rapid advance culminating in the massed fleet of American British Dutch and Australian forces ABDA clashing with the Japanese at the battle of the Java Sea the first major sea battle of World War II in the Pacific But in a campaign crippled by poor leadership and disastrous decisions the Allied response was catastrophic losing their largest warships and their tenuous toe hold in the south Pacific within the first 72 hours of the battle This defeat left ground troops cut off from reinforcement and supply with obsolete equipment no defense against endless Japanese air attacks and with no chance of retreat However although command decisions were to condemn the Allies to defeat the Allied goal was never an outright victory simply a delaying action Facing a relentless and thoroughly vicious enemy the combined forces responded not by running or surrendering but by defiantly holding on in a struggle that was as much a test of character bravery and determination as it was a test of arms ultimately costing the Allies ten vessels and the lives of 2 100 brave sailors In Rising Sun Falling Skies Jeffrey Cox examines the events and evidence surrounding the Java Sea Campaign reconstructing battles that in hindsight were all but hopeless and revealing where fatal mistakes and missed opportunities condemned the Allied forces in an insightful and compelling study of the largely overlooked clash in the Java Sea
