Sustainable Rural Development For Disaster Mitigation:

Sustainable Rural Development for Disaster Mitigation Satendra, Vinod K. Sharma, 2004 India due to its geographical position climate and geological setting is one of the most disaster prone countries of the world and has been experiencing natural disasters every year Though whole of the country is more or less affected by common disasters the impact of these disasters on rural population due to its physical poor socio economic and specific socio cultural condition is comparatively more and long lasting If we analyse the Indian rural society in the context of vulnerability it is found to be much more vulnerable to natural disasters in comparison to its urban counterpart The book as indicated by its name aims to apprise the readers about the impact of natural disasters on rural society and its management It contains seven chapters with an introduction giving details about disasters types disaster management cycle and recent trend in dealing disasters After discussing the disaster trend at world level and India the book attempts to critically analyse the vulnerability of the country to various forms of disasters The book gives detail of different factors influencing the vulnerability of different factors influencing the vulnerability of rural society to the natural calamities and problems and shortcomings of prevailing disaster management system After critically analysing the rural disaster management situation the book concludes that it is the sustainable rural development approach that can mitigate the disasters in rural India with a long term perspective The book suggests the role of PRIs as implementing agency in managing disaster in an effective manner in rural areas The disaster management planning at village level and utility of management tools in disaster management planning is discussed in detail in the last chapter of the book

Disaster Risk Reduction and Rural Resilience Sudip Mitra, Rajib Shaw, 2024-10-30 Even though frequent disaster losses occur in rural and agricultural areas a substantial number of the prevailing disaster research has focused on urban areas often failing to notice rural populations communities and rural development as a whole It is critical to assess how the needs and vulnerabilities in rural communities impact the creation of resilience especially in countries with a large area under rural regions For disaster managers rural areas present different opportunities and challenges from their urban counterparts Rural communities position after a disaster is different from that of urban communities Efficient DRR disaster risk reduction is the key to sustainable rural development Disasters can cause human and animal life loss field crops stored seeds agricultural equipment materials supply systems e.g infrastructure livelihood and associated indigenous knowledge Such impacts have its short term repercussions and affect the long term sustainability of the rural sector Rural regions of the developing world can be remote with high concentrations of mass poverty food insecurity and illiteracy hence access to food shelter and communication related to relief and recovery is a challenge after a disaster In rural areas farmers strongly rely on natural resources and have no alternative source of income or employment making them more vulnerable to a crisis Role of women in rural development and agricultural activities is of paramount importance Yet they are the most affected ones during any disaster Vulnerabilities of children and especially

abled people in the rural sector are untouched areas that require more attention in days to come This book deliberates on the aspects as mentioned above related to disaster risk reduction preparedness and management Apart from the introduction the book has four parts 1 Food and Agriculture 2 Water and Sanitation 3 Gender and Social Issues and 4 Technology Overall this book is a valuable resource material for students researchers academia policymakers and development practitioners

Anderson, Sam Geall, Jingjing Liu, Sony Pellissery, E. N. Anderson, Joel R. Campbell, Joanna I. Lewis, Muhammad Aurang Zeb Mughal, Mark Wilson, 2012-11-01 China India and East and Southeast Asia Assessing Sustainability provides unprecedented analyses by regional experts and scholars elsewhere in the world on China India and their neighbors Despite growing demands internally on their natural resources China and India alone are home to more than one third of the world's population the expanding global economic influence of this region makes these countries vital players in a sustainable future for all citizens of the Earth Regional coverage includes topics such as business and commerce environmental and corporate law and lifestyles and values Harnessing Cultural Capital for Sustainability Mawere, Munyaradzi, Awuah-Nyamekye, Samuel, 2015-06-20 This book argues that the basic component of any society's social security and sustainability is cultural capital and its ability to fully recognise diversity in knowledge production and advancement However with regard to African societies since the dawn of racial slavery and colonialism cultural capital indigenous knowledge in particular has iniquitously and acrimoniously suffered marginalisation and pejorative ragtags Increasingly since the 1990s cultural capital informed by African knowledge systems has taken central stage in discussions of sustainability and development This is not unrelated with the recognition by America and Europe in particular of the central role that cultural capital could and should assume in the logic of development and sustainability at a global level Unfortunately action has often failed to match words with regard to the situation in Africa The current book seeks to make a difference by exploring the role that African cultural capital could and should assume to guarantee development and sustainability on the continent and globally It argues that lofty pan African ideals of collective self reliance self sustaining development and economic growth would come to naught unless determined and decisive steps are taken towards full recognition of indigenous cultural capital on the continent SDGs in Africa and the Middle East Region Ismaila Rimi Abubakar, Izael da Silva, Rudi Pretorius, Khaled Tarabieh, 2024-09-01 Africa is one of the most vulnerable regions and one where the implementation of the SDGs is particularly urgent Underinvestments in natural conservation are increasing the vulnerability of people across many African countries whose well being is endangered by deteriorating socio economic and environmental conditions This volume provides a contribution towards showcasing how natural resources may be more efficiently used and investments may be mobilised to augment the limited public sector funds available to achieve the SDGs This book is part of the 100 papers to accelerate the implementation of the UN Sustainable Development Goals initiative
