Mechatronics in Action David Bradley, David W. Russell, 2010-04-15 Mechatronics in Action s case study approach provides the most effective means of illustrating how mechatronics can make products and systems more flexible more responsive and possess higher levels of functionality than would otherwise be possible The series of case studies serves to illustrate how a mechatronic approach has been used to achieve enhanced performance through the transfer of functionality from the mechanical domain to electronics and software Mechatronics in Action not only provides readers with access to a range of case studies and the experts view of these but also offers case studies in course design and development to support tutors in making the best and most effective use of the technical coverage provided It provides in an easily accessible form a means of increasing the understanding of the mechatronic concept while giving both students and tutors substantial technical insight into how this concept has been developed and used

Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Sustainability Marcus Wagner, 2017-09-08 This book addresses the intersection of entrepreneurship innovation and sustainability EIS presenting high quality research illuminating the relationship between the three fields The EIS nexus is particularly relevant from a European point of view given the focus of the European Commission on corporate social responsibility CSR and sustainability as well as their prominent role within the European Union in general Also the rapid economic growth witnessed especially in the BRIC countries in recent years requires that firms reconcile sustainability aspects with profitability and innovation and entrepreneurs are seen as key diffusers of these aims Sustainability requires both radical and incremental innovation at many different levels technology product process system In many cases such innovations come from small and medium sized enterprises and so the role of the entrepreneur is key to their success The book is split into six sections The first section examines the nexus in detail focusing on system oriented connectivity between sustainability innovation and entrepreneurship The second section looks at how to nurture corporate entrepreneurship for sustainability and the third considers mature industries such as automotives chemicals and electronics and how sustainability aspects can be integrated into innovation process and strategy The fourth section examines the nexus through the lens of developing countries in Africa Sustainable entrepreneurship is identified as a hugely beneficial way to foster development The fifth section of the book concentrates on SMEs and finally the EIS nexus is approached from a network perspective and focuses on inter organisational partnerships which are often an important facilitator or spark for EIS initiatives This book will prove to be essential for researchers in the EIS nexus and be of invaluable help to practitioners governments and inter governmental bodies attempting to encourage sustainable entrepreneurship and innovation Product Design and Life Cycle Assessment Ireneusz Zbicinski,2006 Environmental Footprints of Packaging Subramanian Senthilkannan Muthu,2015-11-06 This book presents detailed discussions concerning the environmental footprints of various packaging systems and materials life cycle assessments of packaging sustainable design of various packaging systems and materials as well as the biodegradation of various packaging materials System Innovation for an Artificial Intelligence Era Artde Donald Kin-Tak Lam,Stephen D. Sustaining Innovation Steven P MacGregor,Tamara Carleton,2011-12-09 In many ways the process of innovation is a constant social dance where the best dancers thrive by adapting new steps with multiple partners The systematic and continuous generation of value in any innovation system relies on collaboration between different groups who must overcome multiple often competing agendas and needs to work together fruitfully over the long term Featuring contributions from leading researchers business leaders and policymakers representing North America Europe India Africa and Australasia this volume investigates different combinations of collaborative arrangements among innovation actors many of which are changing conventional expectations of institutional relationships Collectively the authors demonstrate that no particular combination has emerged as the most dominant or even resilient model of innovation Several authors expand on our understanding of the triple helix model with both academics and practitioners looking to the quadruple helix encompassing business academic government and civil society as the new standard Other authors address aspects of open innovation co creation and user centered design all testaments to the rapidly shifting landscape At the same time many businesses academics and governments not to mention non profit organizations foundations and society at large are active in conversations about how to pursue a more sustainable model of innovation The pursuit of this holy grail of innovation is both facilitated and complicated by an ever accelerating technological environment in which social networking and mobile tools are emerging as new dance arenas
