SWANN'S WAY (Modern Classics Series) Marcel Proust, 2016-12-26 This carefully crafted eBook SWANN'S WAY Modern Classics Series is formatted for your eReader with a functional and detailed table of contents. When the night falls the unnamed narrator finds it difficult to reign in his galloping thoughts. Night for him means profound loneliness and also the only time when his thoughts and memories come back unbidden, often waking him up in the middle of the night. His thoughts involuntarily go back to his past, his country home in Combray and the people who once populated that time. For a long time I used to go to bed early. Sometimes when I had put out my candle my eyes would close so quickly that I had not even time to say I'm going to sleep. And half an hour later the thought that it was time to go to sleep would awaken me. I would try to put away the book which I imagined was still in my hands and to blow out the light I had been thinking all the time. Marcel Proust 1871-1922 was a French novelist, critic and essayist, best known for his monumental novel la Recherche du Temps Perdu (1913-1927). He is considered by English critics and writers to be one of the most influential authors of the 20th century. Charles Kenneth Scott Moncrieff (1889-1930) was a Scottish writer, most famous for his English translation of most of Proust's la recherche du temps perdu, which he published under the Shakespearean title Remembrance of Things Past.

Translation and Stylistic Variation

Helen Gibson, 2023-09-01 Translation and Stylistic Variation Dialect and Heteroglossia in Northern Irish Poetic Translation considers the ways in which translators use stylistic variation analysing the works of three Northern Irish poet translators to look at how in this variety the translation process becomes a creative act by which translators can explore their own linguistic and cultural heritage The volume offers a holistic portrait of the use of linguistic variety dialect and heteroglossia in the literary translations of Seamus Heaney Ciaran Carson and Tom Paulin shedding light on the translators' choices but also readers' experiences of them Drawing on work from cognitive stylistics Gibson reflects on how and why translators choose to add linguistic variety and how these choices can often be traced back to their socio-cultural context The book not only extends existing scholarship on Irish English literary translation to examine issues unique to Northern Ireland but also raises broader questions about translation in locations where language choice is fraught and political The volume makes the case for giving increased consideration to the role of the individual translator both for insights into personal choices and a more nuanced understanding of contemporary literary translation practices in Ireland and beyond This book will be of interest to scholars working in translation studies literary studies and Irish studies For a video recording of the book's BCLT launch visit <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=857wTF8crUM>

Fenland Nature Duncan Poyser, Simon Stirrup, 2025-05-06 This book showcases the natural history and landscape of the Fens an area now responsible for a third of Britain's food production and worth over 3 billion to the economy every year It describes the geology and geography across the Fenland Basin over the last 14 000 years a period dominated by the flux of wetlands and movement of water The human relationship with this landscape is traced through history from Mesolithic hunters to the prosperity of a medieval economy based on the currency of eels through the taming and draining of the vast wetlands to modern farming on an industrial scale While recognising that only a fraction of the Fens is left Fenland Nature celebrates the breadth of wildlife still to be found in the region from vast flocks of visiting wildfowl in the winter months to rare and specialised plants and insects all illustrated with detailed and evocative photographs The book concludes by contemplating an uncertain future where there are possibilities for a sustainable agricultural industry alongside increasing biodiversity requiring new ways of thinking and working with the land The fenland landscape is a microcosm of the huge global challenges caused by habitat loss ecological degradation and climate change If solutions can be found to these complex issues in the Fens then there is hope that these can also apply to similar places across the world

Yachting, 1987-11 Ancient Ocean Crossings Stephen C. Jett, 2017-06-06 Paints a compelling picture of impressive pre-Columbian cultures and Old World civilizations that contrary to many prevailing notions were not isolated from one another In Ancient Ocean Crossings: Reconsidering the Case for Contacts with the Pre-Columbian Americas Stephen Jett encourages readers to reevaluate the common belief that there was no significant interchange between the chiefdoms and civilizations of Eurasia and Africa and peoples who occupied the alleged terra incognita beyond the great oceans More than a hundred centuries separate the time that Ice Age hunters are conventionally thought to have crossed a land bridge from Asia into North America and the arrival of Columbus in the Bahamas in 1492. Traditional belief has long held that earth's two hemispheres were essentially cut off from one another as a result of the post-Pleistocene meltwater fed rising oceans that covered that bridge. The oceans along with arctic climates and daunting terrestrial distances formed impermeable barriers to interhemispheric communication. This viewpoint implies that the cultures of the Old World and those of the Americas developed independently. Drawing on abundant and concrete evidence to support his theory for significant pre-Columbian contacts, Jett suggests that many ancient peoples had both the seafaring capabilities and the motives to cross the oceans and in fact did so repeatedly and with great impact. His deep and broad work synthesizes information and ideas from archaeology, geography, linguistics, climatology, oceanography, ethnobotany, genetics, medicine, and the history of navigation and seafaring, making an innovative and persuasive multidisciplinary case for a new understanding of human societies and their diffuse but interconnected development.

Female Infanticide in India Rashmi Dube Bhatnagar, Renu Dube, Reena Dube, 2012-02-01. Female Infanticide in India is a theoretical and discursive intervention in the field of postcolonial feminist theory. It focuses on the devaluation of women through an examination of the practice of female infanticide in colonial India and the reemergence of this practice in the form of femicide (selective killing of female fetuses) in postcolonial India. The authors argue that femicide is seen as part of the continuum of violence on and devaluation of the postcolonial girl child and woman. In order to fully understand the material and discursive practices through which the limited and localized crime of female infanticide in colonial India became a generalized practice of femicide in postcolonial India, the authors closely examine the progressivist British colonial history of the discovery, reform, and eradication of the practice of female infanticide. Contemporary tactics of resistance are offered in the closing chapters.
