Developing Geographic Information Infrastructures Bastiaan Loenen, 2006 Within information societies information availability is a key issue affecting society s well being A geographic information infrastructure GII is the underlying foundation of such a society with regards to geographic information Access to government information policies are important for the availability and successful use of the information and the success of the GII itself Yet there have been only a few investigations into access policy oriented towards GII developments This book adds this perspective Through the creation of a GII maturity matrix describing the development in GIIs it presents new insights in the role access policies may play in the development of GIIs The book provides policy makers with strategy guidelines for GII development as well as information about which access policy would best promote the use of geographic information This should result in a GII that is able to perform its appropriate infrastructure function in an information society Real Property Transactions.

Procedures, Transaction Costs and Models J. Zevenbergen, 2008-02-08 Transactions in land and other real property differ between countries throughout Europe The transaction procedures reflect formal rules but they are also normalized through conventions and professional codes of conduct This complex of technical legal and economic issues was investigated from the point of view of transaction economics through an ESF COST supported Action G9 Modeling Real Property Transactions The research was performed between 2001 and 2005 by researchers mainly from university departments related to land surveying real estate management geo information sciences and knowledge engineering This book represents the final outcome of that study A modeling approach was elaborated and tested on a number of countries especially Sweden and Slovenia for which the models are shown in this book in the Unified Modeling Language UML The modeling approach leads to transparency and allows comparison Nevertheless the influence of the national and social contexts and the different perspectives that can be taken prevent a simple ranking of the studied procedures For those planning or comparing transaction procedures or parts thereof the book supplies a tested approach and methodology But the book eventually warns of simplification in this field full of complex national institutional arrangements Advances in Responsible Land in depth survey of the field which has a central role to play in tackling a host of environmental issues faced by society. Covering all three strands of geomatics applications, information technology and surveying, the chapters cover the history and background of the subject, the technology employed both to collect and disseminate data and the varied applications to which geomatics can be put, including urban planning, assessment of biodiversity, disaster management and land administration. Relevant professionals as well as students in a variety of disciplines such as geography and surveying will find this book required reading. This rapidly developing field uses increasingly complex and accurate systems. Today technology enables us to capture geo data in full 3D as well as to disseminate it via the Web at the speed of light. We are able to continuously image the world from space at resolutions of up to 50 cm. Airborne LiDAR laser surveying sensors can be combined with digital camera technology to produce geometrically correct images of the Earth's surface while integrating these with large scale topographic maps and terrestrial as well as aerial images to produce 3D cityscapes that computer users can explore from their desktops.

Land Ownership and Land Use Development Erwin Hepperle, Robert Dixon-Gough, Reinfried Mansberger, Jenny Paulsson, Józef Hernik, Thomas Kalbro, 2017-01-10. Across Europe land is constantly the subject of enormous and widely varied pressures. The land we have is shrinking in area due to numerous reasons including those that are directly related to climate change and migration. In fact all disciplines that have responsibilities for the husbandry, use, management and administration of the land are forced to address the problems of how to plan and how to utilise this increasingly valuable resource. The papers contained within this book emerge from two symposia held in 2014 and 2015 which now have been arranged along four general themes reflecting the multi disciplinary nature of the disciplines concerned with land. The first part is dedicated to the interpretation of key terms in their context and the dissimilar conceptual approaches in the governance of different states. It is followed by papers that identify the process of decision taking, how to organize and co operate. One large section addresses the identification of land pattern changes and the reason for it. The papers in the final cluster deal with the general theme of strategies and measures used to steer future evolution in land policies. The publication addresses various needs that have to be balanced, the tasks of living space in the face of societal and demographic changes, infrastructure, supply challenges of an increasingly urbanised region, food production, green energy, natural hazards, habitats and cultural landscapes protection.

Disruptive Technology, Legal Innovation, and the Future of Real Estate Amnon Lehari, Ronit Levine-Schnur, 2020-09-30. This book addresses challenges that new technologies and the big data revolution pose to existing regulatory and legal frameworks. The volume discusses issues such as blockchain and its implications for property transactions and taxes, three or four dimensional title registration, land use and urban planning in the age of big data and the future of property rights in light of these changes. The book brings together an interdisciplinary collection of chapters that revolve around the potential influence of disruptive technologies on existing legal norms and the future development of real estate markets. The book is divided into five parts. Part I presents a survey of the current available research on blockchain and real estate Part II provides a background on property law for the volume grounding it in fundamental theory Part III discusses the changing landscapes of property rights while Part IV debates the potential effects of blockchain on land registration Finally the book concludes with Part V which is devoted to new technological applications relevant to real estate Providing an interdisciplinary perspective on emerging technologies that have the potential to disrupt the real estate industry and the regulation of it this book will appeal to a broad audience consisting of scholars policy makers practitioners and students interested in real estate law economics blockchain and technology policy

Achieving the Sustainable Development Goal Against Poverty in Developing Nations Victor Olutope Ige, Solomon Pelumi Akinbogun, Colin Anthony Jones, 2024-06-18 This book investigates the role of land titling in delivering sustainable means of poverty alleviation in developing countries Despite the huge amount spent on various anti poverty programs annually poverty remains a major problem This persistent challenge necessitates a paradigm shift in which urban poverty could be alleviated in developing countries by leveraging the potential of land titling Titling could provide the urban poor with the opportunity to use their property titles as collateral for loans allowing individuals to invest in businesses upgrade their homes and lift themselves out of poverty As a result job creation and income generation may increase Land titling is a simple inexpensive and effective means of supporting the urban poor particularly those with small and medium sized enterprise SME initiatives Similarly land titling is an antidote to the limited success of property taxation in developing countries as it provides mapped and transaction based records This book will help stakeholders policymakers and policy implementers understand and utilize the capacity of titling as a veritable means of poverty alleviation and SME development in developing nations
