History of the Life, Writings, and Doctrines of Martin Luther Audin (M., Jean Marie Vincent), 1841

Critical Forms Ross Wilson, 2023-08-13 Critical Forms is an account of the generic forms in which literary criticism has been undertaken It examines chiefly Anglophone literary criticism with comparative discussion of

French and German material from around 1750 to the present and examines prefaces selections and anthologies reviews lectures dialogues letters and life writing Though not intended to be an exhaustive history of the period Critical Forms begins in the mid eighteenth century with the emergence of something like the forms chiefly the essay and the treatise in which criticism is still predominantly practised In order at least to complicate this predominance the book documents an abiding plurality in the forms of literary critical writing in the subsequent period leading up to the present Ross Wilson both questions the status of the essay and treatise as the natural forms of literary criticism and shows that the history of literary criticism is much more formally various and innovative than the usual ways of recounting that history as a succession of schools and movements would allow Critical Forms harbours the hope that it will make available a wider array of forms for the practice of literary criticism today it is this hope that licenses its own experiments in critical form
