Copyright Office, 1970 Hollywood TV Christopher Anderson, 1994 The 1950s was one of the most turbulent periods in the history of motion pictures and television During the decade as Hollywood's most powerful studios and independent producers shifted into TV production TV replaced film as America's principal postwar culture industry This pioneering study offers the first thorough exploration of the movie industry's shaping role in the development of television and its narrative forms Drawing on the archives of Warner Bros and David O Selznick Productions and on interviews with participants in both industries Christopher Anderson demonstrates how the episodic telefilm series a clear descendant of the feature film became and has remained the dominant narrative form in prime time TV This research suggests that the postwar motion picture industry was less an empire on the verge of ruin as common wisdom has it than one struggling under unsettling conditions to redefine its frontiers Beyond the obvious contribution to film and television studies these findings add an important chapter to the study of American popular culture of the postwar period

Television in Black-and-white America Alan Nadel, 2005 La couverture indigne Alan Nadel s new book reminds us that most of the images on early TV were decidedly Caucasian and directed at predominantly white audiences Television did not invent whiteness for America but it did reinforce it as the norm particularly during the Cold War years Nadel now shows just how instrumental it was in constructing a narrow conservative and very white vision of America During this era prime time TV was dominated by adult Westerns with heroes like The Rebel s Johnny Yuma reincarnating Southern values and Bonanza s Cartwright family reinforcing the notion of white patriarchy programs that Nadel shows bristled with Cold War messages even as they spoke to the nation s mythology America had become visually reconfigured as a vast Ponderosa crisscrossed by concrete highways designed to carry suburban white drivers beyond the moral challenge of racism racial poverty and increasingly vocal civil rights demands True Western Adventures ,1959
