Transforming Family Jocelyn Frelier, 2022-11 One of the lasting legacies of colonialism is the assumption that families should conform to a kinship arrangement built on normative nuclear individuality based models An alternate understanding of familial aspiration is one cultivated across national borders and cultures and beyond the constraints of diasporas This alternate understanding which imagines a category of trans families relies on decolonial and queer intellectual thought to mobilize or transform power across borders In Transforming Family Jocelyn Frelier examines a selection of novels penned by francophone authors in France Morocco and Algeria including Azouz Begag Nina Bouraoui Fouad Laroui Le la Sebbar Le la Slimani and Abdellah Ta a Each novel contributes a unique argument about this alternate understanding of family questioning how family relates to race gender class embodiment and intersectionality Arguing that trans families are always already queer Frelier opens up new spaces of agency for both family units and individuals who seek representation and fulfilling futures The novels analyzed in Transforming Family as well as the families they depict resist classification and delink the legacies of colonialism from contemporary modes of being As a result these novels create trans identities for their protagonists and contribute to a scholarly understanding of the becoming trans of cultural production As international political debates related to migration the family unit and the global migrant crisis surge Frelier destabilizes governmental criteria for the regrouping of families by turning to a set of definitions found in the cultural production of members of the francophone North African diaspora

Scripting Shame in African Literature Stephen L. Bishop, 2021-03-01 Shame is one of the most frequent underlying emotions expressed throughout sub Saharan African literature yet studies of such literature almost universally ignore the topic in favour of a focus on the struggle for independence and the postcolonial situation encompassing a search for individual national and ethnic identities and questions of corruption changing gender roles and conflicts between so called tradition and modernity Shame however is not antithetical to these investigations and in fact the persistent trope of shame undergirds many of them This book locates these expressions of shame in sub Saharan African literature and shows how its diverse literary representations underscore shame s function as a fulcrum in the mutual constitution of subject and community on the continent Though shame research is dominated by Western definitions and theories this study emphasizes the centrality of African conceptions of shame in ways that notions of Western subjectivity dismiss or cannot capture

The Oxford History of the Novel in English Simon Gikandi,2016-09-05 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience Answering these questions and more Volume 11 The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon Together the volume s 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites mastery of European form it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism Within this historical context the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe Nadine Gordimer George Lamming Jamaica Kincaid V S Naipaul Zoe Wicomb J M Coetzee and many others

Islam and the West
African Novel Ahmed S. Bangura,2000 Extending Edward Said s study of the Orientalist tradition in Western scholarship

Bangura traces the origins of contemporary misunderstandings of African Islam to the discourse of colonial literature. Western critics and writers he observes typically without access to Islam except through the colonialist tradition have perpetuated unfounded politically motivated themes. Maps of Empire Kyle Wanberg, 2020-07-09 During the political upheavals of the mid twentieth century as imperialism was unraveling on a grand scale writers from colonized and occupied spaces questioned the necessity and ethics of their histories. As empire wrote back to the self ordained centres of the world modes of representation underwent a transformation. Exploring novels and diverse forms of literature from regions in West Africa the Middle East and Indigenous America Maps of Empire considers how writers struggle with the unstable boundaries generated by colonial projects and their dissolution. The literary spaces covered in the book form imaginary states or reimagine actual cartographies and identities sanctioned under empire. The works examined in Maps of Empire through their inner representations and their outer histories of reception inspire and provoke us to reconsider boundaries.
