The Maori History Place Names Of Hawkes Bay:

The Māori History and Place Names of Hawke's Bay John Duncan Henry Buchanan, D. R. Simmons, 2004 Maori History and Place Names of Hawke's Bay is a well regarded regional history made available once more in this new edition. It represents a valuable study of Maori culture and a permanent record of people and place names in the Hawke's Bay that have always been known but not always located since early times. In the late 1940s J D H Buchanan began studying, collecting and recording local traditions, conversations with district elders, family genealogies, early survey maps and Maori Land Court proceedings in the Hawke's Bay area. Following his death in 1961, Buchanan's notes were edited by David Simmons. Beginning from the moment Maori arrived in the area on the Takitimu, the book traces the history of local iwi including Ngati Kahungunu, Rangitane and Ngati Awa. Also featured are meticulous plans of pa sites, aerial photographs of the countryside and a comprehensive gazetteer of place names.

Māori Archaeology and History of Heretaunga, New Zealand Mark W. Allen, Ngahiwi Tomoana, Stella August, Wikitoria Moore, 2024-11-12. This book uses Māori Kaupapa, a Māori approach/practice to provide unique insights toward the anthropological understanding of power and place in Heretaunga, New Zealand. It examines the power of Māori leaders and ancient and modern archaeological and historical landscapes over the past six centuries. It highlights Māori warfare characterized by impressive fortifications known as pā. Severe impacts of the colonial period are also discussed, including demographic calamity, changes in settlement pattern and the innovative ways that Māori leaders sought to navigate the last half of the nineteenth century. Recent history and modern issues are examined as well, particularly the rise of tribal self-government. Importantly, the roles of female leaders are examined for each period. This book will be of interest across many disciplines for those interested in conflict and warfare, complex pre-state level societies, colonialism, power and women, and indigenous adaptations to globalization.

Guns and Utu Matthew Wright, 2011-08-01. So they went forth and they were given over to death by the guns. Rangipito of Ngati Rahiri. In the two decades before the Treaty of Waitangi, New Zealand was ripped asunder by island-spanning waves of warfare, extreme violence and cannibalism. Great war parties surged the length of the land to avenge historic grievances, killing and burning as they went. Whole peoples were uprooted and found new homes. Despite the name given them by history, one thing we can be certain about is that these dramatic conflicts were not simply musket wars. This was an age of courage, of heroism, of great character and of astonishing deeds. And they are not dead history. Twenty-first century New Zealand has been profoundly shaped by them, not least in the location of most of the major cities. In Guns and Utu, historian Matthew Wright disputes the many mythologies of these wars, examining some of the whys and wherefores of this generation-long culture collision. A spectacular book. Don Rood, Radio New Zealand National.

Engaging Heritage, Engaging Communities Bryony Oniciul, Michelle L. Stefano, Stephanie Hawke, 2017. International, multi-disciplinary perspectives on the key question of community engagement in theory and practice in a diverse range of heritage settings Across the global networks of heritage sites museums and galleries the importance of communities to the interpretation and conservation of heritage is increasingly being recognised Yet the very term meaningful community engagement betrays a myriad of contrary approaches and understandings Who is a community How can they engage with heritage and why would they want to How do communities and heritage professionals perceive one another What does it mean to engage These questions unsettle the very foundations of community engagement and indicate a need to unpick this important but complex trend Engaging Heritage Engaging Communities critically explores the latest debates and practices surrounding community collaboration By examining the different ways in which communities participate in heritage projects the book questions the benefits costs and limitations of community engagement Whether communities are engaging through innovative initiatives or in response to economic political or social factors there is a need to understand how such engagements are conceptualised facilitated and experienced by both the organisations and the communities involved Bryony Onciul is Lecturer in History at the University of Exeter Michelle Stefano is the Co Director of Maryland Traditions the folklife program for the state of Maryland and Visiting Assistant Professor in American Studies at the University of Maryland Baltimore County Stephanie Hawke is a project manager and fundraiser working on a range of projects aiming to engage communities with cultural heritage Contributors Gregory Ashworth Evita Busa Helen Graham Julian Hartley Stephanie Hawke Carl Hogsden Shatha Abu Khafajah Nicole King Bernadette Lynch Billie Lythberg Conal McCarthy Ashley Minner Wayne Ngata Bryony Onciul Elizabeth Pishief Gregory Ramshaw Philipp Schorch Justin Sikora Michelle Stefano Helen Tully John Tunbridge City of the Plains Mary Beatrice Boyd, 1984 Place Names and Early History of Otago and Southland William Henry Sherwood Roberts, 1913 Traditional Songs of the Maori Mervyn McLean, Margaret Orbell, 2013-10-01 This classic study of indigenous Polynesian music conducted in the 1960s includes a survey of traditional songs in different styles that embody the fundamental values of Maori culture in New Zealand Musical transcriptions Maori texts English translations and extensive notes on more than 50 traditional Maori songs are included Common ceremonial songs are represented including elaborate laments love songs war chants songs of welcome and witty occasional songs Historic Place Names of New Zealand L. S. Rickard, 1968 The aim of this book is to show how our pakeha place names are linked with our history It is not intended to be a dictionary of all the place names of New Zealand Purely descriptive names whose origins are obvious have been ignored unless circumstances connected with the giving of the name made their inclusion desirable Jacket The Hungry Heart Peter Wells, 2012-03-01 Shortlisted for the NZ Post Award this fascinating innovative biography is of a true original and significant figure in NZ's early colonisation I love doubters of a truly honest doubter I have great hope Printer botanist and missionary William Colenso was a nineteenth century maverick a true original He protested at the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi arguing that Maori did not fully understand its implications He became a troubled conscience during the white hot period of colonisation maintaining his dissident voice throughout his career Peter

Wells refreshes our vision of this awkward highly talented man who lost his family after the church expelled him for fathering a child by a Maori woman Rejected by church family and friends Colenso made botany his home and lovingly described the plants of New Zealand At the same time he wrote a series of remarkable pamphlets that open up our past I write for future generations he noted in 1881 The time has come to welcome Colenso back Two Worlds Anne Salmond,1992-01-01 Two Worlds is a penetrating rethinking of that view Drawing on local tribal knowledge as well as European accounts Anne Salmond shows those first meetings in a new light Both Maori and European protagonists were active all fully human following their own practical political and mythological agendas quite unlike those of their modern day descendants in many ways The result is a work of trail blazing significance in which many popular misconceptions and bigotries to do with common perceptions of traditional Maori society are revealed It also opens up new possibilities in the international study of European exploration and discovery Tangata Whenua Atholl Anderson, Judith Binney, Aroha Harris,2014-11-15 Tangata Whenua An Illustrated History charts the sweep of M ori history from ancient origins through to the twenty first century Through narrative and images it offers a striking overview of the past grounded in specific localities and histories The story begins with the migration of ancestral peoples out of South China some 5 000 years ago Moving through the Pacific these early voyagers arrived in Aotearoa early in the second millennium AD establishing themselves as tangata whenua in the place that would become New Zealand By the nineteenth century another wave of settlers brought new technology ideas and trading opportunities and a struggle for control of the land Survival and resilience shape the history as it extends into the twentieth century through two world wars the growth of an urban culture rising protest and Treaty settlements Today at the beginning of the twenty first century M ori are drawing on both international connections and their ancestral place in Aotearoa Fifteen stunning chapters bring together scholarship in history archaeology traditional narratives and oral sources A parallel commentary is offered through more than 500 images ranging from the elegant shapes of ancient taonga and artefacts to impressions of M ori in the sketchbooks and paintings of early European observers through the shifting focus of the photographer s lens to the response of contemporary M ori artists to all that has gone before The many threads of history are entwined in this compelling narrative of the people and the land the story of a rich past that illuminates the present and will inform the future Warfare and the Dynamics of Political Control Brian R. Billman,2025-06-17 Warfare and the Dynamics of Political Control draws on a wealth of interdisciplinary perspectives to explore how conflict shapes the establishment and maintenance of political institutions from small scale societies to expansive empires The book examines the material and ideological factors that drive warfare the organization of combatants the ways leaders use violence to consolidate power and how groups resist political domination in times of conflict By posing critical questions about the efficacy of strategies and the varied outcomes of conflict driven power struggles this volume offers profound insights into the dynamics of political control throughout history Bringing together case studies from diverse regions and time periods

Warfare and the Dynamics of Political Control illuminates the multifaceted nature of political violence. The volume includes discussions of human sacrifice, slave taking, ideological signaling, and military strategy and tactics. The case studies reveal how different forms of political violence influence societal structures. From the fortifications of the Māori in New Zealand to the city walls of early historic India, each contribution provides a detailed analysis of how warfare has been used to both challenge and to establish political hierarchies. Featuring examples from small foraging communities to large empires across various regions and time periods, the book offers a wide-ranging exploration of how different groups have used and resisted political violence. This essential work contributes to our understanding of the intersections between conflict and political power, making it a vital resource for scholars of anthropology, archaeology, political science, and history.

Tangata Whenua Atholl Anderson, Judith Binney, Aroha Harris, 2015-11-19. Tangata Whenua: A History presents a rich narrative of the Māori past from ancient origins in South China to the twenty-first century in a handy paperback format. The authoritative text is drawn directly from the award-winning Tangata Whenua: An Illustrated History; the full text of the big hardback is available in a reader-friendly edition ideal for students and for bedtime reading, and a perfect gift for those whose budgets do not stretch to the illustrated edition. Maps and diagrams complement the text, along with a full set of references and the important statistical appendix. Tangata Whenua: An Illustrated History was published to widespread acclaim in late 2014. This magnificent history has featured regularly in the award lists: winner of the 2015 Royal Society Science Book Prize, shortlisted for the international Ernest Scott Prize, winner of the Te Kōhanga o Māui History Award at the Ng Kupu ora Aotearoa Māori Book Awards, and Gold in the Pride in Print Awards. The importance of this history to New Zealand cannot be overstated. Māori leaders emphatically endorsed the book, as have reviewers and younger commentators. They speak of the way Tangata Whenua draws together different strands of knowledge from historical research through archaeology and science to oral tradition. They remark on the contribution this book makes to evolving knowledge, describing it as a canvas to paint the future on. And many comment on the contribution it makes to the growth of understanding between the people of this country.

The Politics of the Past Peter Gathercole, David Lowenthal, 2004-01-14. History is written by the winners; is the received wisdom. This book explains why historical interpretation has to incorporate perspectives from those other than winners and demonstrates archaeology's crucial role in this wide-ranging approach. The book draws more on Africa, Afro-America, Australasia, and Oceania than on Europe, the source of the traditionally dominant perspective in archaeology. The four organizing themes of The Politics of the Past are the forms and consequences of the Eurocentric heritage, the conflicting perspectives of rulers and ruled, the significance of administrative and institutional rivalries, and the cleavages that divide professional from popular views of archaeology. Archaeologists, anthropologists, historians, and other scholars will find The Politics of the Past illuminating and provocative. It will enrich historical and archaeological inquiry and interpretation and ramify their relevance for public policy.

Sacred Species and Sites Gloria Pungetti, Gonzalo Oviedo, Della Hooke, 2012-07-19

It is being increasingly recognised that cultural and biological diversity are deeply linked and that conservation programmes should take into account the ethical cultural and spiritual values of nature. With contributions from a range of scholars, practitioners and spiritual leaders from around the world, this book provides new insights into biocultural diversity conservation. It explores sacred landscapes, sites, plants and animals from around the world to demonstrate the links between nature conservation and spiritual beliefs and traditions. Key conceptual topics are connected to case studies as well as modern and ancient spiritual insights guiding the reader through the various issues from fundamental theory and beliefs to practical applications. It looks forward to the biocultural agenda, providing guidelines for future research and practice and offering suggestions for improved integration of these values into policy planning and management.

The Forgotten Wars
Ron Crosby, 2020-10-14T00:00:00Z
Distinguished author and lawyer Ron Crosby brilliantly rewrites his seminal The Musket Wars on a thematic basis, simplifying it to a concise work full of maps and illustrations for the general reader. Years of presentations to schools and groups is reflected in this dynamic new approach. Muskets, potatoes and other introductions fundamentally altered the balance of power in 19th century Aotearoa, leading to inter iwi conflicts over almost 40 years that claimed tens of thousands of lives, killing, wounding or displacing up to half of the Māori population. This important work will further understanding of how the boom of muskets continues to echo in New Zealand today. And it needs to: the wars are still neglected by government and glossed over by other histories. The Forgotten Wars ensures these epic conflicts will be remembered.

Iwi Angela Ballara, 1998
Maori and the written word
Bradford Haami, 2004
Presents a history of Ngāti Hikata through the writings of seven Māori people spanning four generations of the Maaka family. Included are genealogies, traditional histories and personal documents written in Māori and in English that date from 1848 to 1978. Ranging from pepeha and waiata to the bleakly beautiful diaries of a mutton bird collector, the documents collected in this book are a rare and intriguing window into the real lives of their authors. This valuable reference work also shows how to safeguard and share ancestors' precious work for the future.
