Skill And Occupational Change:

Skill and Occupational Change Roger Penn, Michael Rose, Jill Rubery, 1994 In this major new book leading sociologists economists and social psychologists present their highly original research into changes in jobs in Britain in the 1980s Combining large scale sample surveys personal life histories and case studies of towns employers and worker groups their findings give clear and often surprising answers to questions debated by social and economic observers in all advanced countries Does technology destroy skills or rebuild them How does skill affect the attitudes of employees and their managers towards their jobs Are women gaining greater skill equality with men or are they still stuck on the lower rungs of the skill and occupational ladders The book also takes up neglected issues what do employees really mean by a skilled job How does skill change link with changes in social values and challenges and discredits the widely held view that new technology has de skilled the work force Skill and Occupational Change exploits the richest single data set available in contemporary Europe and the authors exemplify many new techniques for researching skills at work as an economic resource as a motor of occupational change and as a basis for personal careers and identity It provides the most comprehensive authoritative and carefully researched set of conclusions to date on skill trends and their implications and draws the authoritative new map of skill change in British society

Occupational Change in Europe Daniel Oesch, 2013-09-19 This book examines the pattern of occupational change in Western Europe by drawing on extensive evidence of employment data in Britain Denmark Germany Spain and Switzerland since 1990

Technological Change and Skill Development in Sudan Samia Mohamed Nour, 2013-02-01 With the ongoing restructuring in Sudan structural issues such as the need for skill development and interaction with technological change need an in depth analysis that this book offers The central themes of this book are required skill formation upskilling of the workers and their interaction with technological change in lieu of a deficient educational system and its implications An empirical investigation of the causes and consequences of low skill and technology indicators using a primary survey at macro and micro levels is undertaken This is followed by an examination of the interaction between the low skill and technology indicators the relationships between skill upskilling and technology indicators skills mismatch the uses and impacts of ICT and differences at firm as well as industry level as well as knowledge transfer effects A set of recommendations towards the need for implementation of consistent policies increasing incentives and collaboration between public and private institutions completes the book
