

A scenic landscape featuring a calm lake in the foreground, surrounded by dense evergreen forests. In the background, majestic mountains rise under a sky filled with dramatic, dark clouds, with a bright light source breaking through near the horizon. The overall mood is serene yet powerful.

We live our lives like survivors, weaker in some places, but stronger in others. Scarred, but healing.

Black Women and Breast Cancer Elizabeth A. Williams, 2018-11-16 Christian theology at its core is a story about someone being in trouble In response to this trouble the triune God intervenes God identifies with those in trouble walking with them through the experience Yet the God of Christian theology goes a step further God prevails over trouble God is an overcomer Black women with breast cancer identify with this God They also see themselves in this theological narrative They see themselves in the midst of troubles troubles like racism poverty and environmental exposures that create the disease affecting their bodies They see the troubles of breast cancer their biological disposition towards more aggressive cancers later stage diagnoses poorer prognoses diminished quality of care and worse outcomes Black women also palpably feel the troubles breast cancer brings like fear physical disfigurement social isolation being stereotyped for treatment decisions abandonment and even death Black women feel the myriad troubles breast cancer brings But Black women also know God in their troubles They know an active God who identifies with and prioritizes their needs They know this God through scripture and experience as God who puts them front and center And because they know God as an overcomer and creative force they know themselves as overcomers For with God their troubles do not last always Black women with breast cancer construct a cultural theology of breast cancer out of knowing God Borne out of experiences of the Black Church womanist theology and their intersectional identities of race class and gender this theological investigation informed by anthropology examines how Black women construct an ontology of who God is and how God operates and gain a God consciousness that shapes their response to the disease Using pain faith and testimony as tools to struggle against breast cancer Black survivors theology transforms them from victims of breast cancer to change agents Out of their lives as survivors comes a theology of complex hope one cognizant of Black women s breast cancer disparities yet oriented towards Black women s achievement of health in the present and the future a sufficient hope to sustain Black women through it all

Critical Issues in Child Sexual Abuse Jon R. Conte, 2001-11-06 The chapters in this book are intended to describe what is known and what is not known in several specific areas of childhood abuse The opening interview with Roland Summit gives readers an opportunity to get acquainted with a pioneer in the field An instrumental force in the study of child sexual abuse Summit has indelibly impacted the work of the remaining authors and the field in general The interview provides a personal and historical view of the development of the field and identifies problems and issues all professionals should be prepared to deal with A beginning chapter looks at the development of child sexual abuse research Internationally recognized scholars practitioners and thinkers who have based their contributions on both research and practice experience emphasize the most critical unknowns in his or her area reflecting on the subject much as Dr Summit might have in the early days of finding out the now knowns Chapters focus on sexual offenders children s memory adult memory for trauma children as victims treatment challenges of traumatized victims victims in court and treatment of dissociate identity clients
