Industry 2000 World Commission on Environment and Development. Advisory Panel on Industry and Sustainable Development, Advisory Panel on Energy. Advisory Panel on Industry and Sustainable Development, 1987 Country Programme for Inclusive and Sustainable Industrial Development, 2021-2025 United Nations Industrial Development Organization, 2021 Industrial Development Report 2018 United Nations Publications, 2018-03-30 Too often demand is not considered when discussing industrial development But the fact that manufacturing consumption is the most visible result of industrial development and one of its most important drivers calls for attention This report argues that under the right set of conditions the consumption of manufacturing goods can set in motion a virtuous circle of income creation demand diversification and long run development How By providing new and better goods that become cheaper through time industrial development creates real incomes for all which in turn lead to changes in consumption patterns that stimulate further creation of new and better goods restarting the circle This circle however is not necessarily socially inclusive or environmentally sustainable thus calling for specific policies to achieve these important goals This report examines identifies the main challenges and opportunities that arise from them taking into account the sustainable development agenda

Environmentally Sustainable Industrial Development in China Yanqing Jiang, Xu Yuan, 2020 There is a growing concern among Chinese researchers and policymakers about China's industrial development being unsustainable and the irreversible depletion of natural resources and deterioration of the ecological environment The relationship between industrial development pollution and the environmental quality is an important issue that deserves careful study Environmental considerations play a crucial role in shaping China's development strategies Green development of China creates strong pressures for continuous transforming upgrading and restructuring of the Chinese economy This book explores how China's industrial development relates to pollution and environmental quality and how considerations about such issues associated with the ecological system affect China's development strategies Changing Course, 1997 Industry 2000, 1987

Striving for Ecologically Sustainable Industrial Development United Nations Industrial Development Organization, 1991

Training Course, 1991 Sustainable Industrialization David Wallace, 2017-10-19 This report first published in 1996 argues that radical changes in industrial organization and its relationship to society tend to arise in rapidly industrializing countries and that new principles of sustainable production are more likely to bear fruit in developing than in developed countries The rising tide of investment by multinational firms who bring managerial organizational and technological expertise is a major resource for achieving this Developing countries could steer such investment towards environmental goals through coherent and comprehensive policies for sustainable development Issues in Support of Ecologically Sustainable Industrial Development UNIDO, 1991 Fighting Marginalization Through Sustainable Industrial Development United Nations Industrial Development Organization, 2002 This publication presents the proceedings of the Industrial Development Forum held in December 2001 to discuss the promotion of sustainable industrial development in developing countries Papers presented considered a range of topics including investment technology and development technology acquisition UNIDO s approach to fighting poverty international standards as a means to development international environmental frameworks business activities and environmental issues in Africa and a case study of persistent organic pollutants POPs Striving for Ecologically Sustainable Industrial Development ,1991 Handbook of Industrial Development Patrizio Bianchi,Sandrine Labory,Philip R. Tomlinson,2023-01-13 Providing an overview of industrial development using a variety of different approaches and perspectives the Handbook of Industrial Development brings together expert contributors and highlights the current multiple and interdependent challenges that can only be addressed by an interdisciplinary approach Chapters discuss the existing issues faced by industry following both the digital and environmental transitions highlighting their regional roots and the interplay with the wider institutional framework

Ecologically sustainable industrial development : training course United Nations Industrial Development Organization,1991 Sustainable Economic Development Arsenio Balisacan,Ujjayant Chakravorty,Majah-Leah Ravago,2014-09-20 Sustainable Economic Development Resources Environment and Institutions presents 25 articles that lay the foundations of sustainable development in a way that facilitates effective policy design The editors mix broad thematic papers with focused micro papers balancing theories with policy designs The book begins with two sections on sustainable development principles and practice and on specific settings where sustainable development is practiced Two more sections illuminate institutions governance and political economy Additional sections cover sustainable development and agriculture and risk and economic security including disaster management This rich source of information should appeal to any institution involved in development work and to development practitioners grappling with an array of difficult on the ground developmental challenges Analyzes policies that move markets and resource use patterns towards achieving sustainability Articles are kaleidoscopic in scope and creativity Authors embody extraordinary diversity and qualifications

SUSTAINABLE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT Marilyn Carr,1988 Proceedings of the Conference on Ecologically Sustainable Industrial Development, Copenhagen, Denmark, 14-18 October 1991 United Nations Industrial Development Organization,1991 ISO 14001 Riva Krut,Harris Gleckman,2013-11-05 ISO 14001 is the new international standard for environmental management systems But what difference will it make to the environmental performance of companies that receive it Will it do anything to further sustainable industrial development This edition seeks to argue that it will not and further that it does not have a legitimate practice in discussions of sustainable industrial development The authors point to a massive democratic deficit in the process of establishing the standard in which small and medium size enterprises developing country officials public opinion and environmental groups may have trouble participating They aim to argue that this has put up barriers to the full participation of these parties Moreover they seek to describe how the standard reverses the trend for firms to innovate to meet the challenge of sustainability      Industrial Development Report 2024 United Nations Publications,2024-08-29 The Industrial Development Report 2024 IDR24 emphasizes the pivotal role the industrial sector plays in delivering sustainable development solutions given its profound impact on economic societal and environmental goals Sustainable industrialization entails fighting climate change promoting economic growth and generating millions of decent jobs while harnessing cutting edge technologies The report finds that every manufacturing job on average creates more than two jobs in other sectors of the economy The manufacturing sector also significantly contributes to green innovation compared to other sectors with 60 per cent of all green patents worldwide owned by industrial firms despite representing a smaller share of the overall firm population Accelerating sustainable industrial development is therefore crucial for achieving the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs      Long-Term Conflict Prevention and Industrial Development Ralf Bredel,2003 After decades of striving to prevent international conflict major armed conflicts in the 1990s have taken place within national boundaries After the series of national independence wars in the 1950s and 1960s and frequent geopolitical wars in the 1970s and 1980s a category of wars of the third kind prevailed The aim of this book is to consider the root causes of recent internal conflicts and to develop long term conflict prevention strategies from here New insights suggest the central role of politico economic inequalities in ethnic religious and cultural conflict The United Nations system has just started to adjust to this new reality of conflict and make long term conflict prevention a priority issue on international agendas Whereas development practitioners should principally conceive their work through a conflict prevention lens there is a shift in focus to United Nations agencies that deal with the economic characteristics of conflict The unbroken significance of a sustainable industrial development process in developing countries may allow the United Nations Industrial Development Organization UNIDO a particular vantage point and role in the long term prevention of conflict
