Susan K. Kinnell

Svet Na Puti Light On The Path:

Russia Faces NATO Expansion Joseph Laurence Black, 2000 The importance of Russian thinking about NATO expansion eastward has been badly underestimated in the West In this first comprehensive English language assessment of the Russian position Black seeks to remedy that oversight by a thorough examination of Russian official statements expert analysis party platforms and media commentary which show the degree to which NATO expansion has brought a rare unity to the otherwise fragmented and volatile Russian political arena Based entirely on Russian language sources this timely study provides invaluable insights into current Russian thinking on NATO expansion and projects the significance of such thinking for the Western Alliance into the future

From Darkness To Light Igal Halfin, 2000-07-15 In conjunction with Studies of the Harriman Institute In this interdisciplinary and controversial work Igal Halfin looks at Marxist theory in a new light attempting to break down the divisions between history philosophy and literary theory His approach is methodological combining intellectual and social history to argue that if we are to take the Bolshevik revolutionary experiment seriously we have to examine carefully the ideological presupposition of both communist ideological texts and the archival documents that social historians believe truly reflect lived experience in order to see what effects these texts had on reality Igal Halfin aims to turn Marxism class and consciousness from subjects of analysis to its objects From Darkness to Light begins by examining the Marxist philosophy of history as understood by the Russian revolutionary movement Halfin argues that the Soviet government took its cues to how it could bring about a classless society from a peculiar blending of eschatological thinking and modern techniques of power Halfin then offers a case study of the Bolshevik attempt in the 1920s to create the Communist New Man by amalgamating the characteristics of the intellectual and the worker in order to eradicate the petit bourgeois traits attributed by the regime to the pre revolutionary individualistic and decadent student Halfin s conclusions raise important questions about Marxist theory as it relates to class historical progress and communism itself His approach suggests that proletarianization should be understood not as a change in the social composition of the student body but as the introduction of the language of class into the universities Through the examination of the process of the literary construction of class identity Halfin concludes that the student class affiliation in the Soviet Union of the 1920s was not simply a matter of social origins but of students ability using a set of ritualized procedures to defend their claims to a working class identity Halfin s conclusions raise important questions about Marxist theory as it relates to class historical progress and communism itself
