

Between 1980 and 1984, the number of people in the United States who were employed in the health care industry grew by 1.5 million, or 15 percent. This growth was due to a number of factors, including an increase in the number of people aged 65 and older, a rise in the number of people with chronic diseases, and a growing emphasis on preventive care. The health care industry is expected to continue to grow in the future, as the population ages and the demand for health care services increases.
