Swallowing Jewels:

Swallowing Jewels Aurealia N. Nelson, 2000-09-21 These are imaginative evocative pieces the author reveling in the semantic and stylistic possibilities of the English language She is unconstrained by conventional forms although her work remains both accessible and lucid indeed her work is marked by a strong literary vision and confidence of expression that brings further meaning to the work Although it is very difficult to pick highlights from a collection as accomplished as this I think the following passage illustrates some of the key elements of the author's style and subject matter Enormous dark wood shining with a hidden secret Rich cherry red mahogany bark beckoned her with its treasure The scrolls of ornament curled and uncurled into various shapes and forms a grape vine then a swallow bird then a deep pool that seemed to ripple when one held their head just so Sheath stood before it uttering the words of the unlocking spell As this extract illustrates the descriptions are at once striking and eloquently communicated yet never descend into meaningless verbosity The writing is intelligent and thoughtful and the author switches between subject matter styles and forms with considerable grace
