Syrup Pails and Gopher Tails : Memories of the One-room School John C. Charyk,1992 The Empty Schoolhouse Luther Bryan Clegg,1997 Annotation One and two room schools represent a paradoxical time in Texas history when school played second fiddle to family duties but still served as the focus of community life Luther Bryan Clegg s The Empty Schoolhouse provides a direct link to the past through interviews with students who attended these schools and teachers who taught in this area between Fort Worth and Odessa and the Hill Country and Amarillo Former students share stories describing Friday afternoon literary societies dead snakes in desk drawers pranks fires travel to and from school and discipline Drawing on historical and sociological data as well as interviews Clegg presents intriguing accounts of rural life preserving the uniqueness of the olden days Syrup Pails and Gopher Tails [sound Recording] : Memories of a One-room School John C. Charyk,Roberts, Harold,1984 How Schools Worked R.D. Gidney,W.P.J. Millar,2012-02-21 Between the 1880s and the 1940s children in English Canada encountered schools and school systems profoundly different from today s In How Schools Worked R D Gidney and W P J Millar map the contours of that world retrieving it from the obscurity created not only by the passage of time but by fundamental shifts in organization pedagogical values and beliefs about the role of public education Moving beyond the rhetoric on school reform that marked the period How Schools Worked focuses squarely on schooling itself How many children went to elementary or secondary school how often and for how long What was the range of their educational attainments How were their patterns of attendance influenced by social class gender and where they lived What and how were they taught How were they assessed and promoted from grade to grade What were their teachers qualifications and experience What were their school buildings like Who paid the bills and how much did they pay How well or badly were children and young people served by their schools And how did answers to these questions change over time A sympathetic yet critical analysis How Schools Worked is a portrait of a complex enterprise at work Gidney and Millar offer a rich understanding of the period a reappraisal of some major debates and insights into educational issues that perplex us still

Canada struggling to define itself labour farmers business the church social reformers and minorities all held extravagant hopes irrational fears and contradictory demands Whose hopes would be realized and whose dreams would end in disillusionment Which changes would prove permanent and which would be transitory A Time Such As There Never Was Before describes how this exciting period laid the foundation of the Canada we know today On the Front Line of Life In the last decade of his life Stephen Leacock turned to writing informal essays that blended humour with a conversational style and ripened wisdom to address issues he cared about most education literature economics Canada and its place in the world and to confront the joys and sorrows of his own life With an introduction that sets them in the context of his life thoughts and times these essays reveal a passionate intelligent personal Leacock against a backdrop of Depression and war finding hope and conveying the timeless message that only the human spirit can bring social justice peace and progress

Freedom to Play Norah L. Lewis, 2010-09-29 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children s pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but there was always time for play always time for fun Norah Lewis has provided an entertaining view of the toys games and activities in Canada and pre confederate Newfoundland from approximately 1900 through 1955 Her book will be of interest to historians educators and sociologists as well as anyone who lived through or wants to know more about those early years in Canada and the games children used to play
