Legislative, Magistrates and Mayors Election John Franklin Copper, 2002 In December 2001 Taiwan held an election that many observers said in addition to the 2000 election that resulted in opposition party leader Chen Shui bian winning the presidency consolidated its democracy This election made President Chen's party the Democratic Progressive Party DPP the largest party in the legislature and gave him an opportunity to implement his agenda President Chen had not been able to do previously due to the opposition's large legislative majority and the political gridlock that had plagued Taiwan for some months This book examines the political milieu in which the campaign was conducted the candidates party platforms and strategies the campaign and the results of the election It also assesses the domestic and international responses to the election and its political ramifications The author argues that the DPP won using questionable tactics thus diminishing its otherwise significant victory while creating doubts about the ROC Taiwan political miracle The KMT lost badly The People First Party created by James Soong after the 2000 presidential election performed very well in this election Former president Lee Teng hui helped found a new party shortly before this election to help President Chen by drawing support away from the KMT it performed well The author concludes that the election mirrored Taiwan's new four party system which is divided into two camps While the ROC green bloc the DPP and Lee's new party performed well the ROC blue team the KMT and Soong's party won a majority Taiwan's party politics the author says remain in flux Consolidating Taiwan's Democracy

John Copper, 2005-01-06 Consolidating Taiwan's Democracy assesses the often heard argument that political change in Taiwan especially that resulting from recent elections that brought a change of ruling parties first in the executive branch of government and then the legislative branch proves that Taiwan's democratization has been finalized or consolidated The author sees both positive and negative aspects to democracy's consolidation in Taiwan East Asia Great Britain:

Parliament: House of Commons: Foreign Affairs Committee, 2006-08-13 East Asia is a dynamic region with half of the world's population the world's fastest growing economies and a wide spectrum of diverse cultures and political systems The region has huge economic potential but also has hundreds of millions of the world's poorest people as well as a number of significant security risks and unresolved disputes Despite significant economic reforms the People's Republic of China remains an authoritarian one party state with widespread human rights abuses and little sign of political liberalisation The Committee's report examines economic and political developments in China since its previous report on the topic HCP 574 I session 1999 2000 ISBN 010270600X was published in November 2000 Amongst the 58 conclusions and recommendations made the Committee finds that the growth of China's trade will continue to have an enormous impact on the world's economy and the UK Government should work bilaterally and with its EU partners to help ensure China meets its World Trade Organization obligations and to establish a legal framework to enforce intellectual property rights The report criticises the collaboration of Western internet companies in the Chinese Government's censorship and policing of the internet as morally unacceptable and calls on the UK Government to continue to promote religious freedom in the country and to press the Chinese Government to allow the Dalai Lama to return to Tibet in his capacity as spiritual leader Taiwan: A New

History Murray A. Rubinstein, 2015-02-12 This is a comprehensive portrait of Taiwan It covers the major periods in the development of this small but powerful island province nation The work is designed in the style of the multi volume Cambridge History of China Construction of Chinese Nationalism in the Early 21st Century Suisheng

Zhao, 2014-07-25 Chinese nationalism is powered by a narrative of China's century of shame and humiliation in the hands of imperialist powers and calls for the Chinese government to redeem the past humiliations and take back all lost territories The continuing surge of Chinese nationalism in the early 21st century therefore has fed a roiling sense of anxiety in many political capitals about whether a virulent nationalism has emerged to make China's rise anything but peaceful This book addresses this anxiety by examining the domestic sources and foreign policy implications of Chinese nationalism in the early 21st century It is divided into three parts Part I is an overview of the scholarly debate about if the rise of Chinese nationalism has driven China's foreign policy in a more irrational and inflexible direction in the first one and half decades of the 21st century Part II analyzes the construction of Chinese nationalism by a variety of domestic forces including the communist state the angry youth fen qing liberal intellectuals and ethnic groups Part III explores whether Chinese nationalism is affirmative assertive or aggressive through the case studies of China's maritime territorial disputes with Japan in the East China Sea and with several Southeast Asian countries in the South China Sea the border controversy over the ancient Koguryo with Korea and the cross Taiwan Strait relations This book was based on articles published in the Journal of Contemporary China practitioners of international law and international relations alike      The Taiwan Question in Xi Jinping's Era Suisheng Zhao, 2024-11-01 Taiwan is one of the flashpoints with the potential to spark a war in East Asia With the rhetoric of striving for peaceful unification Xi Jinping has made clear that the Taiwan question is China's core national interest making it essentially non negotiable and important enough to go to war How has Beijing's Taiwan policy evolved What is the support for armed reunification among the Chinese people And how have Taiwan's internal dynamics and external relations changed in response to Beijing's evolving policy toward Taiwan These are crucially important questions that this edited volume delves into and hopes to answer This book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese foreign policy Taiwan studies and cross Strait relations Political Science International Relations as well as Asian politics more generally The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Contemporary China and are accompanied by a new Introduction      Taiwan in Troubled Times John Franklin Copper, 2002 Concerned with Taiwan's politics and its relations with China following the election of Chen Shui bian as President in March 2000
