On Interpreting Construction Schemas Nicole Delbecque, Bert Cornillie, 2007

This volume addresses the constructional variability with transitive and causative verbs from the point of view of their respective action and motion patterns

Drawing on the theoretical advances registered in cognitive approaches to language

Cognitive Grammar

Construction Grammar

and space semantics the papers substantiate new interpretations and adduce empirical evidence from various languages to refine or adjust existing analyses of transitivity and causation

The different contributions all address the crucial question of how concrete and abstract notions of human behavior drive linguistic expressions

Cognitive linguists consider that linguistic competence functions in terms of complex conceptual units the native speaker knows and manipulates conceptual blocks without paying further attention to their constitutive parts or their internal organization

However as this volume illustrates the role of the constitutive parts and their internal organization cannot simply be reduced to zero

A multidimensional approach to construction schemas is at stake

That is the speaker applies proper embodied subroutines to build a coherent meaning but the construction schemas are also rooted in the linguistic patterns the speaker and hearer are familiar with

The volume is primarily intended for scholars working within cognitive semantic research at large

Given its theoretical and applied character in the sense of giving empirical evidence for specific problems in the grammar the volume will also be of great interest to anyone concerned with syntactic processes construction grammar or with the cognitive structure of discourse The descriptive and theoretical insights indeed dwell on areas that are currently dealt with in modern linguistics      Mr. Midshipman Easy Frederick Marryat, 1868      Cobbett's Complete Collection of State Trials and Proceedings for High Treason and Other Crimes and Misdemeanors from the Earliest Period to the Present Time ,1818      The Nation ,1888
