Cullen, Cheryl Lero Jonson, 2018-04-17 Deterrence Choice and Crime explores the various dimensions of modern deterrence theory relevant research and practical applications Beginning with the classical roots of deterrence theory in Cesare Beccaria s profoundly important contributions to modern criminological thought the book draws out the many threads in contemporary criminology that are explicitly mentioned or at least hinted by Beccaria These include sanction risk perceptions and their behavioral consequences the deterrent efficacy of the certainty versus the severity of punishment the role of celerity of punishment in the deterrence process informal versus formal deterrence and individual differences in deterrence The richness of the volume is seen in the inclusion of chapters that focus on the theoretical development of deterrence across disciplines such as criminology and economics In an innovative section the role of agents of deterrence is considered Lessons are learned from the practical applications of deterrence undertaken in the areas of policing corrections and the community The closing section includes Michael Tonry s An Honest Politician s Guide to Deterrence Certainty Severity Celerity and Parsimony a reminder of Beccaria s dictum that it is better to prevent crimes than punish them In the current environment deterrence arguments are routinely used to justify policies that do just the opposite Ray Paternoster who contributed two chapters passed away as this volume was being finalized Fittingly this

The Spatial Scale of Crime John R. Hipp, 2022-12-09 Combining insights from two distinct research traditions, the communities and crime tradition that focuses on why some neighborhoods have more crime than others and the burgeoning crime and place literature that focuses on crime in micro-geographic units, this book explores the spatial scale of crime. Criminologist John Hipp articulates a new theoretical perspective that provides an individual and household-level theory to underpin existing ecological models of neighborhoods and crime. A focus is maintained on the agents of change within neighborhoods and communities and how households nested in neighborhoods might come to perceive problems in the neighborhood and then have a choice of exit, voice, loyalty, or neglect (EVLN). A characteristic of many crime incidents is that they happen at a particular spatial location and a point in time. These two simple insights suggest the need for both a spatial and a longitudinal perspective in studying crime events. The spatial question focuses on why crime seems to occur more frequently in some locations than others and the consequences of this for certain areas of cities or neighborhoods The longitudinal component focuses on how crime impacts and is impacted by characteristics of the environment This book looks at where offenders targets and guardians might live and where they might spatially travel throughout the environment exploring how vibrant neighborhoods are generated how neighborhoods change and what determines why some neighborhoods decline over time while others avoid this fate Hipp s theoretical model provides a cohesive response to the general question of the spatial scale of crime and articulates necessary future directions for the field This book is essential for students and scholars interested in spatial temporal criminology
