Park, 2013-07-16 Julie J Park examines how losing racial diversity in a university affects the everyday lives of its students She uses a student organization the InterVarsity Christian Fellowship IVCF at California University as a case study to show how reductions in racial diversity impact the ability of students to sustain multiethnic communities. The story documents IVCF is evolution from a predominantly white group that rarely addressed race to the most racially diverse campus fellowship at the university However its ability to maintain its multiethnic membership was severely hampered by the drop in black enrollment at California University following the passage of Proposition 209 a statewide affirmative action ban Park demonstrates how the friendships that students have or do not have across racial lines are not just a matter of personal preference or choice they take place in the contexts that are inevitably shaped by the demographic conditions of the university She contends that a strong organizational commitment to diversity while essential cannot sustain racially diverse student subcultures Her work makes a critical contribution to our understanding of race and inequality in collegiate life and is a valuable resource for educators and researchers interested in the influence of racial politics on students lives Why Aren't We There Yet? Vasti Torres, Jan Arminio, Raechele L. Pope, 2023-07-03 Co published with Despite seeming endless debate and public attention given to the issue for several decades those committed to creating welcoming and engaging campus environments for all students recognize that there is considerably more work to be done and ask Why aren t we there yet and when will we be done While our campuses have evolved from being exclusionary and intolerant and publicly espouse the objectives of being welcoming accepting affirming and engaging the data on admissions retention and graduation clearly indicate that these goals have not been achieved The contributors to this book seek to offer new insights to improve student affairs emphasizing action that recognizes this is a complex and multi faceted process and beginning with the assertion that without recognizing the influences of privilege and inequality we educators cannot promote truly welcoming environments This book focuses on guiding individuals and groups through learning how to have difficult conversations that lead us to act to create more just campuses and provides illustrations of multiple ways to respond to difficult situations. It advocates for engaging in fruitful dialogues regarding differing social identities including race ethnicity religion gender and sexual orientation to lead readers through a process that advocates for justice and for taking personal responsibility for contributing to the solution.
