Turner, 2024-10-28 This book is about the archaeology of science or what can be learnt from the systematic examination of the artefacts made by precision craftsmen for the study of the natural world An international authority on historical scientific instruments Gerard Turner has collected here his essays on European astrolabes and related topics By 1600 the astrolabe had nearly ceased to be made and used in the West and before that date there was little of the source material for the study of instruments that exists for more modern times It is necessary to read the instruments themselves and astrolabes in particular are rich in all sorts of information mathematical astronomical metallurgical in addition to what they can reveal about craftsmanship the existence of workshops and economic and social conditions There is a strong forensic element in instrument research and Gerard Turner s achievements include the identification of three astrolabes made by Gerard Mercator all of whose instruments were thought to have been destroyed Other essays deal with the discovery of an important late 16th century Florentine workshop and of a group of mid 15th century German astrolabes linked to Regiomontanus In Synchrony with the Heavens, Volume 2 Instruments of Mass Calculation David King, 2005-06-01 This is the first investigation of one of the main interests of astronomy in Islamic civilization namely timekeeping by the sun and stars and the regulation of the astronomically defined times of Muslim prayer

The study is based on over 500 medieval astronomical manuscripts first identified by the author now preserved in libraries all over the world and originally from the entire Islamic world from the Maghrib to Central Asia and the Yemen The materials presented provide new insights into the early development of the prayer ritual in Islam They also call into question the popular notion that religion could not inspire serious scientific activity Only one of the hundreds of astronomical tables discussed here was known in medieval Europe which is one reason why the entire corpus has remained unknown until the present A second volume also to be published by Brill deals with astronomical instruments for timekeeping and other computing devices

Sextants at Greenwich W.F.J.
