describes how to assess plan and design the appearance of cities to please the inhabitants He presents a series of studies on evaluative images discusses methodologies findings and applications to design and planning at various stages The Image of a City Loren Wolstein Stein,1991 This thesis is a proposal to create The Image of a City A Place for the People The study begins by exploring the notion of an image studying the various images that may already exist and creating a place from the chosen image or images that becomes a recognizable symbol of the city Images of a place are the impressions of specific objects left with the individuals who visit it live in it or see it in pictures I asked people about their images of different cities and most of the answers were built structures therefore architectural features play an important role in defining the image of a place If the images of places are structures what is the built image of Boston It became evident that Boston does not have one clear specific built image This thesis will develop a built form for the city of Boston The site for the development of the image of Boston is Central Wharf located on the waterfront Images are open to personal interpretation and the success of this design is in one s ability to associate the design to the intended image The design is successful if it is suited to the location and one can comfortably associate the image Because the built image of the city is an image for the people the built image must also be a place for the people It is people that make a place and the formal design decisions of a place can create the impressions and images of a city

Seeking the Welfare of the City Naomi Noguchi Reese,2025-01-27 In the history of public theology the Holy Spirit s role in creation has been underexplored If the Holy Spirit is the agent of transformation in creation why have so many theologians neglected the Spirit s activity in the context of public theology One of the causes of such neglect derives from a long held belief in dualism or its assumption As a result generally speaking theologians have neglected the eschatological aspect of the Spirit s work over creation and instead have devoted much of their attention to the immanent spiritual aspect of the Spirit s work Hence a theology is needed that recaptures the eschatological aspect of the Spirit s work over creation and Colin E Gunton s pneumatology that is trinitarianly formulated and eschatologically conceived brings a fresh approach to public theology and moves us toward a full bodied holistic and trinitarian public theology that takes into account the triune God This study attempts to draw upon the resources uncovered in Gunton s pneumatology to outline applications for Christian engagement of the public square for the twenty first century The book concludes with criteria for discerning the Spirit s work in the public square to give us practical ways to see how the Spirit may be working in the public square for transformation
