The Individual:

The Theory of the Individual in Economics John B Davis, 2003-03-20 The concept of the individual and his/her motivations is a bedrock of philosophy. All strands of thought at heart come down to a particular theory of the individual. Economics though is guilty of taking this hugely important concept without questioning how we theorise it. This superb book remedies this oversight. The new approach put forward by Davis is a detailed investigation of the major works of Hegel and the young Marx with exploring how the concept of the individual is positioned within their ontologies and how this positioning is reflected in their related political views. Instead of contrasting a Marxist understanding of the individual with that of a liberal thinker, Sevgi Dogan chooses to take Hegel's theory of the state as representative of the modern state which Marx criticizes. The decision to be in opposition to Hegel rather than some other liberal thinkers is important for two reasons. First, since Marx has developed many of his early ideas in critical interaction with Hegel, this comparative approach enables the book to present a more thorough and well-grounded exposition of Marx's arguments. Second, since Hegel himself has also criticized the concepts of liberal ideology in many respects, differentiating Marx's arguments from those of Hegel's enables the book to underline how and why Hegel's critique of liberal ideology falls short of actually empowering individuals in the way that Marx's account does.

The Decline of the Individual Mark D. White, 2017-09-18 This book explores the steady decline in the status of the individual in recent years and addresses common misunderstandings about the concept of individuality. Drawing from psychology, neuroscience, technology, economics, philosophy, politics, and law, White explains how and why the individual has been devalued in the eyes of scholars, government leaders, and the public. He notes that developments in science have led to doubts about our cognitive competence, while assumptions made in the humanities have led to questions about our moral competence. In this book, White goes on to argue that both of these views are mistaken and that they stem from overly simplistic ideas about how individuals make choices, however imperfectly, in their interests.

which are multifaceted and complex In response he proposes a new way to look at individuals that preserves their essential autonomy while emphasizing their responsibility to others inspired by the moral philosophy of Immanuel Kant and the legal and political philosophy reflected in the Bill of Rights to the U S Constitution This book explains how individuality combines both rights and responsibilities reconciles the popular yet false dichotomy between individual and society and provides the basis for a humane and respectful civil society and government This book is part of White s trilogy on the individual and society which includes The Manipulation of Choice and The Illusion of Well Being

The Individual in the Religions of the Ancient Mediterranean Jörg Rüpke,2013-08-29 Ancient religions are usually treated as collective and political phenomena and apart from a few towering figures the individual religious agent has fallen out of view Addressing this gap the essays in this volume focus on the individual and individuality in ancient Mediterranean religion Even in antiquity individual religious action was not determined by traditional norms handed down through families and the larger social context but rather options were open and choices were made On the part of the individual this development is reflected in changes in individuation the parallel process of a gradual full integration into society and the development of self reflection and of a notion of individual identity These processes are analysed within the Hellenistic and Imperial periods down to Christian dominated late antiquity in both pagan polytheistic as well as Jewish monotheistic settings The volume focuses on individuation in everyday religious practices in Phoenicia various Greek cities and Rome and as identified in institutional developments and philosophical reflections on the self as exemplified by the Stoic Seneca
