Commission on the English Curriculum, 1963      The College Teaching of English Edna Hays, 1946      Professional Career of the College English Teachers National Council of Teachers of English. Committee on Selection, Retention and Advancement of the College Teacher of English, 1962      College Teaching of English John C. Gerber, John H. Fisher, 1965-01-01      An Annotated Bibliography on the College Teaching of English, 1957-1963 National Council of Teachers of English. Committee on a Bibliography of College Teaching, J. Carter Rowland, Lizette O. Van Gelder, 1966      The Evolution of College English Thomas P. Miller, 2014-03-18 Thomas P Miller defines college English studies as literacy studies and examines how it has evolved in tandem with broader developments in literacy and the literate He maps out four corners of English departments literature language studies teacher education and writing studies Miller identifies their development with broader changes in the technologies and economies of literacy that have redefined what students write and read which careers they enter and how literature represents their experiences and aspirations Miller locates the origins of college English studies in the colonial transition from a religious to an oratorical conception of literature A belletristic model of literature emerged in the nineteenth century in response to the spread of the penny press and state mandated schooling Since literary studies became a common school subject professors of literature have distanced themselves from teachers of literacy In the Progressive era that distinction came to structure scholarly organizations such as the MLA while NCTE was established to develop more broadly based teacher coalitions In the twentieth century New Criticism came to provide the operating assumptions for the rise of English departments until those assumptions became critically overloaded with the crash of majors and jobs that began in 1970s and continues today For models that will help the discipline respond to such challenges Miller looks to comprehensive departments of English that value studies of teaching writing and language as well as literature According to Miller departments in more broadly based institutions have the potential to redress the historical alienation of English departments from their institutional base in work with literacy Such departments have a potentially quite expansive articulation apparatus Many are engaged with writing at work in public life with schools and public agencies with access issues and with media ethnic and cultural studies With the privatization of higher education such pragmatic engagements become vital to sustaining a civic vision of English studies and the humanities generally      Teaching English as a Foreign Language, 1912-1936: Michael West Richard C. Smith, 2004-01-15 This collection focuses on the work of the major pioneers working in the 1920s and 1930s whose research and writings laid the methodological foundations for post World War II British approaches to English as a foreign language teaching ELT These early pioneers included Harold E Palmer in Japan Michael West in India and Laurence Faucett in China Separately and jointly at the 1934 5 Carnegie

Conference they succeeded in establishing a principled basis for the teaching of English to speakers of other languages different in significant respects from teaching English as a first language in Britain and the Empire
