A Defense for the Chronological Order of Luke's Gospel Benjamin Wing Wo Fung, 2019-01-09 For decades scholars have reached no consensus on the writing order of Luke s gospel The author through a thorough study of the word orderly in Luke 1:3 a comparison of Luke s writing methodologies with those of the Greco Roman historians and a detailed investigation of the differences in the narrative accounts among the Synoptic Gospels concludes that Luke writes in chronological order The author also explains how Luke has employed writing methodologies commonly used by Greco Roman historians to write the prefaces in Luke Acts and divide the Gospel into sections and the implications of these writing methodologies on Luke's writing order. He explicates the possible reasons behind the differences in the writing style between the travel section 9:52b to 19:44 and the rest of the Gospel, proposes the central theme of Luke Acts and assesses the possible implications for accepting Luke's chronological writing order on biblical studies.

The Dated Events of the Old Testament; Being a Presentation of Old Testament Chronology Willis Judson Beecher, 1907

Writing History 7-11 Hilary Cooper, 2014-06-05

Writing History 7-11 supports students and primary teachers helping them to explore ways in which activities involving the talk that underpins historical enquiry can be developed into reading and exciting extended reflective writing. The step that teachers and pupils take from talk for learning to talk for writing is a vital one. In this book the authors argue that all aspects of historical enquiry leading to writing involve discussion and dialogue which permeate every aspect of doing history. From this perspective they set out a theoretical framework for understanding the role of talk and reading in developing pupils' critical thinking and confident reflective writing, then demonstrate through a series of case studies in which teachers, university lecturers and pupils work together how the theory is put into practice in the classroom. Themes include:

- How to support children in writing in a variety of interesting genres
- How to make links between the National Curriculum 2013 for History and for English
- How to plan for breadth and depth studies in the new National Curriculum
- How activities in History 5-11 can be developed into exciting extended writing

The second half of the book draws upon case studies from a number of real primary classrooms with children of different ages. Each case study shows how teaching was planned to develop children's confidence and enjoyment in discussion and to scaffold reasoned written explanation and argument. Topics presented are all relevant to the new curriculum framework and include:

- talking and reading about Time change and significance over 6000 years
- writing a television script
- Celtic Britain and the Roman Army
- writing a travel brochure about Celtic Britain
- The destruction of Roman towns
- writing a Saxon poem
- An archaeological investigation of a body in a Danish peat bog
- writing a newspaper report
- Did any countries benefit from WW1?
- writing an argued viewpoint
- The expansion westwards of European settlers
- writing a flap book exploring different perspectives

This indispensable book provides not only sources for pupils to use in their writing but also models and exemplars of different styles and voices to draw upon.
