Why? : the Chrysanthemum and the sword (Ruth Benedict) Kim Seonghun, 2017 The Chrysanthemum and the Sword, 2010 田中, 2014 A Reappraisal of Ruth Benedict's 'The Chrysanthemum and the Sword', 1996 The Chrysanthemum and the Sword Ruth Benedict, 1989 The Chrysanthemum and the Sword Annabel Murray, 1983-01-01 田中(田中)(The Chrysanthemum and the sword) Ruth Benedict, 2016 The Anthropology of Self and Behavior Gerald Michael Erchak, 1992

Gerald Erchak's engaging book stakes out a position in the field of psychological anthropology. He addresses himself primarily to students in the field and also to specialists who want a clearly presented approach. He argues that culture shapes the human self and behavior and that the self and behavior are in turn adapted to culture. After defining basic concepts and debates in the field, Erchak takes up the topics of socialization, gender, sexuality, collective behavior, national character, deviance, behavioral disorder, cognition, and emotion. This new textbook contains more material about sexuality and gender than any other such text. For Erchak, psychocultural adaptation is basic to human life. Culture plays a central role in our behavior and survival. Each chapter reviews the literature not as a scholar would but rather to provide an overview of central issues in the field. Each chapter also provides case material, some of which is drawn from Erchak's own work on West African socialization, Micronesian social change, family violence, initiation rites, and alcoholism. His examples are drawn from the U.S. as well as non-Western cultures. This book will be of particular interest to teachers looking for new texts for undergraduate courses in anthropology, psychology, and sociology.

Ruth Benedict Virginia Heyer Young, 2005-01-01. Benedict's work in fact anticipated trends in anthropology in the decades to come by projecting a framework of individuals not only shaped by their culture but also using their culture for personal or collective objectives.

BOOK JACKET Specters of the West and the Politics of Translation Naoki Sakai, Yukiko Hanawa, 2001-01-01 Embracing the East Mari Yoshihara, 2003

As exemplified by Madame Butterfly, East-West relations have often been expressed as the relations between the masculine dominant West and the feminine submissive East. Yet this binary model does not account for the important role of white women in the construction of Orientalism. Mari Yoshihara's study examines a wide range of white women who were attracted to Japan and China in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century and shows how through their engagement with Asia these women found new forms of expression, power, and freedom that were often denied to them in other realms of their lives in America. She demonstrates how white women's attraction to Asia shaped and was shaped by a complex mix of exoticism for the foreign admiration, the refined desire for power and control, and love and compassion for the people of Asia. Through concrete historical narratives and careful textual analysis, she examines the ideological context for America's changing discourse about Asia and interrogates the power and appeal as well as the problems and limitations of American Orientalism for white women's explorations of their identities Combining the analysis of race and gender in the United States and the study of U S Asian relations Yoshihara's work represents the transnational direction of scholarship in American Studies and U S history In addition this interdisciplinary work brings together diverse materials and approaches including cultural history material culture visual arts performance studies and literary analysis Embracing the East was the winner of the 2003 Hiroshi Shimizu Award of the Japanese Association for American Studies best book in American Studies by a junior member of the association
