Cancer, Asperger's, and Loss Clarisse N. Rénard, 2012-08-15 The Slamming Door is a true story Find out how an Aspie who has learned social skills by rote one who has earned respectable academic credentials but does not function well in many work environments navigates a labyrinth of death dying and loss and how she copes with anxiety induced by travel and changes in her environment and how she slowly painstakingly comes to recognize the signs of hostility around her while making no apology for who she is In September of 2008 Clarisse N Renard was asked to move in with a man who had just been diagnosed with bone cancer by his daughter Berta who knew that she was a writer and available Berta had to work in an office so she couldn't be her father's caregiver The man was her husband's older cousin Bryn a Harvard educated retired New York City social worker and Clarisse and her husband Damon had stayed with him many times He was also one of her best friends after eight years of visits a confidante and like another dad to her The request which was also an invitation of sorts felt like a chance to pay her cousin in law back for all of the emotional and other support he had given to Clarisse and Damon. She didn't know Berta very well but had been excited to find that her marriage came with a female cousin her own age. Clarisse looked forward to getting to know her better. When he realized that he couldn't stay home alone while terminally ill, Bryn wanted Clarisse with him and told her so the evening that she arrived. However, he warned her that Berta and her older half sister were very jealous of the fact that she was there with him. Berta resented Clarisse in many ways and gradually revealed her true self a bully. Read on to find out how an articulate and meticulous Aspie dealt with all of these problems and situations and how she viewed it all. People with Asperger's are not broken; their brain patterns merely differ from those of the majority of the population. Aspies have produced great novels, scientific discoveries and the foundations of the best legal system on the planet, namely The Declaration of Independence. Asserting oneself knowing that no good deed will be judged with appreciation by a bully is an act of courage and defiance but also a necessary one. There is nothing wrong with those who are different. The problem is those who won't accept or respect them. The memoir includes photographs of points of interest in Manhattan and of other items of interest.

Field Notes from a Hidden City Esther Woolfson, 2014-02-11

Field Notes From a Hidden City is set against the background of the austere grey and beautiful northeast Scottish city of Aberdeen. In it, Esther Woolfson examines the elements geographic, atmospheric and environmental which bring diverse life forms to live in close proximity in cities. Using the circumstances of her own life, house, garden and city, she writes of the animals who live among us: the birds, gulls, starlings, pigeons, sparrows and others, the rats and squirrels, the cetaceans, the spiders and the insects. In beautiful absorbing prose, Woolfson describes the seasons, the streets and the quiet places of her city over the course of a year which begins with the exceptional cold and snow of 2010. Influenced by her own long experience of corvids, she considers prevailing attitudes towards the natural world, urban and non-urban wildlife, the values we place on the lives of individual species and the ways in which man and creature live together in cities.

The Water Will Come Jeff Goodell, 2017-10-24

What if Atlantis wasn't a myth but an early precursor to a new age of great flooding? Across the globe, scientists and civilians alike are noticing rapidly rising sea levels and higher and higher tides pushing more water directly into the places we live, from our most vibrant historic cities to our last remaining traditional coastal villages. With each crack in the great ice sheets of the Arctic and Antarctica and each tick upwards of Earth's thermometer, we are moving closer to the brink of broad disaster. By century's end, hundreds of millions of people will be retreating from the world's shores as our coasts become inundated and our landscapes transformed. From island nations to the world's major cities, coastal regions will disappear. Engineering projects to hold back the water are bold and may buy some time. Yet despite international efforts and tireless research, there is no permanent solution, no barriers to erect or walls to build that will protect us in the end from the drowning of the world as we know it. The Water Will Come is the definitive account of the coming water, why and how this will happen and what it will all mean. As he travels across twelve countries and reports from the front lines, acclaimed journalist

Jeff Goodell employs fact science and first person on the ground journalism to show vivid scenes from what already is becoming a water world An immersive mildly gonzo and depressingly well timed book about the drenching effects of global warming and a powerful reminder that we can bury our heads in the sand about climate change for only so long before the sand itself disappears Jennifer Senior New York Times
