Thorgeirsdóttir, 2005-06-01 The subject of this study is freedom within the press the nature and limits of the protection afforded to the journalistic imparting process which has been a neglected area of research The analysis draws on the classical defenders of freedom of speech Milton and Mill to show that at the dawn of the 21st century the intertwined alliance between big business and public authorities resulting in the widespread phenomena of self censorship within the media constitutes an almost insurmountable obstacle Instead of enlightening the public and inspiring the individual the press may be contributing to an inert public and individual cowardice antithetical to the objectives of human dignity and democracy The core of the problem is that prima facie the infringement of freedom within the media is not exercised on legal premises and cannot therefore be solved within the legal framework The operation of the press in society is conditioned by three types of regulation legal regulation market regulation and self regulation Legal regulation does not adequately presuppose the impact of the latter as it is based on the assumption that press freedom is mainly a negative liberty The book explores the affirmative side of Article 10 of the European Convention on Human Rights to guarantee press freedom that is not merely illusory but practical and effective Convention jurisprudence has not only influenced the domestic courts of the Contracting Parties but also the legislators of the Member States In an era of globalization dominant media operators wield power in their own domestic markets to impede national regulators in adopting interventionist media policies to secure journalistic freedoms The Convention jurisprudence represents a kind of European ius commune which is here set in the context of an analysis reflecting the problems and values at issue and offering recommendations to alleviate a situation which threatens democratic ideals and public spirited journalism

Human Rights, Digital Society and the Law Mart Susi,2019-05-31 The Internet has created a formidable challenge for human rights law and practice worldwide International scholarly and policy oriented communities have so far established a consensus regarding only one main aspect human rights in the internet are the same as offline There are emerging and ongoing debates regarding not only the standards and methods to be used for achieving the sameness of rights online but also whether classical human rights as we know them are contested by the online environment The internet itself in view of its cross border nature and its ability to affect various areas of law requires adopting an internationally oriented approach and a perspective strongly focused on social sciences In particular the rise of the internet enhanced also by the influence of new technologies such as algorithms and intelligent artificial systems has influenced individuals civil political and social rights not only in the digital world but also in the atomic realm As the coming of the internet calls into question well established legal categories a broader perspective than the domestic one is necessary to investigate this phenomenon This book explores the main fundamental issues and practical dimensions related to the safeguarding of human rights in the internet which are at the focus of current academic debates It provides a comprehensive analysis with a forward looking perspective of bringing order into the somewhat chaotic online dimension of human rights It addresses the matter of private digital censorship the apparent inefficiency of existing judicial systems to react to human rights violations online the uncertainty of liability for online human rights violations whether the concern with personal data protection overshadows multiple other human rights issues online and will be of value to those interested in human rights law and legal regulation of the internet Real-World Solutions for Diversity, Strategic Change, and Organizational
