Kendall-Morwick, 2020-12-15. Modernist literature might well be accused of going to the dogs. From the strays wandering the streets of Dublin in James Joyce's Ulysses to the highbred canine subject of Virginia Woolf's Flush, dogs populate a range of modernist texts. In many ways, the dog in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries became a potent symbol of the modern condition, facing like the human species the problem of adapting to modernizing forces that relentlessly outpaced it. Yet the dog in literary modernism does not function as a stand-in for the human. In this book, Karalyn Kendall Morwick examines the human-dog relationship in modernist works by Virginia Woolf, Jack London, Albert Payson Terhune, J. R. Ackerley, and Samuel Beckett, among others. Drawing from the evolutionary theories of Charles Darwin and the scientific, literary, and philosophical work of Donna Haraway, Temple Grandin, and Carrie Rohman, she makes a case for the dog as a coevolutionary and coadapting partner of humans. As our coevolutionary partners, dogs destabilize the human, not the autonomous self, transparent subject of Western humanism; the human is instead contingent, shaped by its material interactions with other species. By demonstrating how modernist representations of dogs ultimately mongrelize the human, this book reveals dogs' status both as instigators of the crisis of the modern subject and as partners uniquely positioned to help humans adapt to the turbulent forces of modernization. Accessibly written and convincingly argued, this study shows how dogs challenge the autonomy of the human subject and the humanistic underpinnings of traditional literary forms. It will find favor with students and scholars of modernist literature and animal studies. By the City of the Long Sand Alice Tisdale Hobart, 1926

The Poetics of Crime Michael Hviid Jacobsen, 2016-02-24. The Poetics of Crime provides an invitation to reconsider and reimagine how criminological knowledge may be creatively and poetically constructed, obtained, corroborated, and applied. Departing from the conventional understanding of criminology as a discipline concerned with refined statistical analyses, survey methods, and quantitative measurements, this book shows that criminology can and indeed should move beyond such confines to seek sources of insight, information, and knowledge in the unexplored corners of poetically and creatively inspired approaches and methodologies With chapters illustrating the ways in which criminologists and other researchers or practitioners working on crime related questions can find inspiration in a variety of unconventional materials writing styles and analytical strategies The Poetics of Crime offers studies of police photography classic and contemporary literature silver screen movies performative dance enactments and media images As such this volume opens up the field of criminological research to alternative and novel sources of knowledge about crime its perpetrators and victims authorities motives and justice It will therefore appeal not only to sociologists social theorists and criminologists but to scholars across disciplines with interests in crime deviance and innovative approaches to social research
