developments both within the construction industry and in the wider economy over the past 12 months the facts perceptions commentary and sources set out in the ACE Client Guide 2000 provide a basis for individual firms to examine What to do Why they do it How they do it How well they do it Where improvements could be made How such improvements could be achieved

Arbitration Practice in Construction Contracts Douglas S. Stephenson, 2008-04-30 Since it came into force on 31 January 1997 the Arbitration Act 1996 has generally been welcomed by users and practitioners in the construction industry It has fulfilled expectations that it would provide a user friendly and practical basis of resolving disputes arising from construction contracts in a fair expeditious and economical way In doing so it has generated a modest volume of case law that has demonstrated the excellence of the Act's provisions and its drafting Since the Fourth Edition of this book appeared in 1997 the Housing Grants Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 with its Scheme for Construction Contracts Regulations 1998 have come into force as have the Civil Procedure Rules 1998 both of which affect the resolution of disputes arising from construction contracts Case law has arisen from the Construction Act and from the House of Lords judgment in the Beaufort Developments case overturning the much criticised judgment of the Court of Appeal in Crouch In this Fifth Edition of an established text the author deals with each stage of an arbitration explaining in practical terms the procedures to be adopted in avoiding disputes and in dealing with them efficiently when they do arise It features over 20 specimen arbitration documents and includes the full text of the Act It also covers several important developments in case law affecting construction arbitrations and refers to the introduction and case law arising from adjudication under the Housing Grants Construction and Regeneration Act 1996

Proceedings of the Institution of Civil Engineers, 2005 Statutory Adjudication Derek Simmonds, 2008-04-15 Existing books on construction adjudication have either been written as an introduction to the subject when the Housing Grants Construction and Regeneration Act was first introduced in 1996 or they are aimed at professionals representing parties or at adjudicators themselves In contrast this book has been written for the parties to adjudication particularly those new to the process It takes a straightforward practical approach to the subject dealing with the process step by step The first part takes a party who is referring a dispute through the stages of the adjudication process including the presentation of a referral submission to the enforcement of an award Part 2 examines the position of a party faced with adjudication highlighting the various actions necessary to protect its interest and explains how a decision can be challenged Part 3 looks at matters of common interest Statutory payment provisions and the Scheme for Construction Contracts are dealt with in Part 4 and Part 5 compares the most frequently used adjudication provisions and procedures Appendices include an alphabetical list of 139 adjudication cases which are also categorised to show the aspect or aspects with which they are principally concerned
