The Animal in Ottoman Egypt Alan Mikhail, 2014 Animals in rural Egypt became enmeshed in social relationships and made possible many tasks otherwise impossible Rather than focus on what animals represented or symbolized Mikhail discusses their social and economic functions as Ottoman Egypt cannot be understood without acknowledging animals as central shapers of the early modern world From Rupert's Land to Canada John Elgin Foster, Rod Macleod, Theodore Binnema, 2001-05 Dr John E Foster spent many years researching and interpreting the Metis continually re examining his own thinking about the fur trade and the West trying to find new lines of inquiry across disciplinary boundaries and playing with ideas that re imagined the Canadian West In From Rupert's Land to Canada in tribute to John's work his friends and colleagues further explore themes related to Native History and the Fur Trade Metis History and the Imagined West Contributors include Michael Payne Nicole St Onge Jan Grabowski Jennifer Brown Heather Rollason Frits Pannekoek Heather Devine Gerhard Ens Gerry Friesen Ted Binnema Ian MacLaren Rod Macleod Tom Flanagan and Glen Campbell Evolution on British Television and Radio Alexander Hall, 2021-09-30 This book charts the history of how biological evolution has been depicted on British television and radio from the first radio broadcast on evolution in 1925 through to the 150th anniversary of Charles Darwin's Origin of the Species in 2009 Going beyond science documentaries the chapters deal with a broad range of broadcasting content to explore evolutionary themes in radio dramas educational content and science fiction shows like Doctor Who The book makes the case that the dominant use in science broadcasting of the evolutionary epic a narrative based on a progressive vision of scientific endeavour is part of the wider development of a standardised way of speaking about science in society during the 20th century In covering the diverse range of approaches to depicting evolution used in British productions the book demonstrates how their success had a global influence on the genres and formats of science broadcasting used today Handbook of meat inspection Robert Ostertag, 1907 Handbook of Meat Inspection Robert von Ostertag, 1907 Creatures of Cain Erika Lorraine Milam, 2018-12-11 How Cold War America came to attribute human evolutionary success to our species unique capacity for murder After World War II the question of how to define a universal human nature took on new urgency Creatures of Cain charts the rise and precipitous fall in Cold War America of a theory that attributed man's evolutionary success to his unique capacity for murder Drawing on a wealth of archival materials and in depth interviews Erika Lorraine Milam reveals how the scientists who advanced this killer ape theory capitalized on an expanding postwar market in intellectual paperbacks and widespread faith in the power of science to solve humanity's problems even to answer the most fundamental questions of human identity The killer ape theory spread quickly from colloquial science publications to late night television classrooms political debates and Hollywood films Behind the scenes however scientists were sharply divided their disagreements centering squarely on questions of race and gender Then in the 1970s the theory unraveled altogether when primatologists discovered that chimpanzees also kill members of their own species While the discovery brought an end to definitions of human exceptionalism delineated by violence Milam shows how some evolutionists began to argue for a shared chimpanzee human history of aggression even as other scientists discredited such theories as sloppy popularizations A wide ranging account of a compelling episode in American science Creatures of Cain argues that the legacy of the killer ape persists today in the conviction that science can resolve the essential dilemmas of human nature

The Case for Animal

Literature and Posthumanism Giulia Maria Chesi, Francesca Spiegel, 2019-11-14 The subject of the posthuman of what it means to be or to cease to be human is emerging as a shared point of debate at large in the natural and social sciences and the humanities This volume asks what classical learning can bring to the table of posthuman studies assembling chapters that explore how exactly the human self of Greek and Latin literature understands its own relation to animals monsters objects cyborgs and robotic devices With its widely diverse habitat of heterogeneous bodies minds and selves classical literature again and again blurs the boundaries between the human and the non human not to equate and confound the human with its other but playfully to highlight difference and hybridity as an invitation to appraise the animal monstrous or mechanical machinic parts lodged within humans This comprehensive collection unites contributors from across the globe each delving into a different classical text or narrative and its configuration of human subjectivity how human selves relate to other entities around them For students and scholars of classical literature and the posthuman this book is a first point of reference Constantine Porphyrogenetos - The Book of Ceremonies , 2017-11-27 This is the first modern language

Warfare, State And

Society In The Byzantine World 560-1204 John Haldon, 2002-11-01 Warfare State and Society in the Byzantine World is the first comprehensive study of the warfare and the Byzantine World from the sixth to the twelfth century The book examines Byzantine attitudes to warfare the effects of war on society and culture and the relations between the soldiers their leaders and society The communications logistics resources and manpower capabilities of the Byzantine Empire are explored to set warfare in its geographical as well as historical context In addition to the strategic and tactical evolution of the army this book analyses the army in campaign and in battle and its attitudes to violence in the context of the Byzantine Orthodox Church Critical Insights on Colonial Modes of Seeing Cattle in India (1850-1980) Himanshu Upadhyaya, 2024-07-21 This book traces the contours of the symbiotic relationship between crop cultivation and cattle rearing in India by reading against the grain of several official accounts from the late colonial period to the 1980s. It also skillfully unpacks the multiple cultural expressions that revolve around cattle in India and the wider subcontinent to show how this domestic animal has greatly impacted political discourses in South Asia from colonial times into the postcolonial period. The author begins by demonstrating the dependence between the nomadic cattle breeder and the settled cultivator at the nexus of land livestock agriculture as indicated in the writings of Sir Albert Howard who espoused some of the most sophisticated ideas on integration holism and mixed farming in an era when agricultural research was marked by increasing specialisation and compartmentalisation. The book springboards with the views of colonial experts who worked at imperial science institutions but passionately voiced dissenting opinions due to their emotional investment in the lives of Indian peasants of whom Howard was a leading light. The book presents Howard and his contemporaries' writings to then engage contemporary debates surrounding organic agriculture and climate change, tracing the path out of the treadmill of industrial agriculture and factory farming. In doing so, the book shows how historically animal rearing has been critically linked to livelihood strategies in the Indian subcontinent. At once a dispassionate reflection on the role played by cattle and water buffaloes in not just supporting farm operations in the agro-pastoral landscape but also in contributing to millions of livelihoods in sustainable ways while fulfilling the animal protein in the Indian diet, the book presents contemporary lessons on development perspectives relating to sustainable and holistic agriculture. A rich and sweeping treatment of this aspect of environmental history in India that tackles the transformations prompted by the arrival of veterinary medicine, veterinary education and notions of scientific livestock management, the book is a rare read for historians, environmentalists, agriculturalists, development practitioners and animal studies scholars with a particular interest in South Asia.
