Social Theory In Archaeology Foundations Of Archaeological Inquiry:

Social Theory in Archaeology Michael B. Schiffer, 2000 A handbook to an array of theoretical approaches that contribute something provocative or significant to the enterprise of constructing social theory in archaeology setting the agenda for future research

Social Theory in Archaeology Michael B. Schiffer, 2000 Since the debut of the New Archaeology in the 1960s approaches to the science of interpreting the material past have proliferated Seeking to find common ground in an increasingly fractious and polarized discipline a group of archaeological theorists representing various schools of thought gathered in a roundtable during the fall of 1997 As organizer Michael Schiffer sought to build bridges that might begin to span the conceptual chasms that have formed in archaeology during the past few decades Many participants in the roundtable accepted the challenge of building bridges but some rejected the premise that bridge building is desirable or feasible Even so every chapter in the resulting volume contributes something provocative or significant to the enterprise of constructing social theory in archaeology and setting the agenda for future social theoretic research With contributions from every major school of thought whether informed by evolutionary theory feminism chaos theory behavioralism or post processualism this volume serves as both handbook to an array of theoretical approaches and as a useful look at each school's response to criticism

Envisioning Landscape Dan Hicks, Laura McAtackney, Graham Fairclough, 2016-06-03 The contributors to this volume take advantage of the diversity of landscape archaeology to examine the link to heritage the impact on our understanding of temporality and the situated theory that arises out of landscape studies using examples from New York to Northern Ireland Africa to the Argolid

Cities and the Shaping of Memory in the Ancient Near East Ömür Harmanşah, 2013-03-18 This book investigates the practice of constructing cities in the ancient Near East bringing together architecture and cultural history Mound Builders and Monument Makers of the Northern Great Lakes, 1200-1600 Meghan C L Howey, 2012-11-20 Rising above the northern Michigan landscape prehistoric burial mounds and impressive circular earthen enclosures bear witness to the deep history of the region's ancient indigenous peoples. These mounds and earthworks have long been treated as isolated finds and have never been connected to the social dynamics of the time in which they were constructed, a period called Late Prehistory. In Mound Builders and Monument Makers of the Northern Great Lakes 1200-1600, Meghan C L Howey uses archaeology to make this connection. She shows how indigenous communities of the northern Great Lakes used earthen structures as gathering places for ritual and social interaction which maintained connected egalitarian societies in the process. Examining every available ceramic sherd from every northern earthwork, Howey combines regional archaeological investigations with ethnohistory, analysis of spatial relationships, and collaboration with tribal communities to explore changes in the area's social setting from 1200 to 1600. During this time, cultural shifts such as the adoption of maize horticulture led to the creation of the earthen constructions. Burial mounds were erected marking claims to resources and defining areas for local ritual gatherings, while massive circular enclosures were constructed as intersocietal ceremonial centers. Together, Howey shows these structures made up part of an interconnected purposefully designed cultural landscape. When societies incorporated the earthworks into their egalitarian social and ritual behaviors, the structures became something more: ceremonial monuments. The first systematic examination of earthen constructions in what is today Michigan, Mound Builders and Monument Makers of the Northern Great Lakes 1200-1600 reveals complicated indigenous histories that played out in the area before European contact. Howey's richly illustrated investigation increases our understanding of the diverse cultures and dynamic histories of the pre-Columbian ancestors of today's Great Lake tribes.

Persistent Traditions Luc W.S.W. Amkreutz, 2013-12-19 The adoption of agriculture is one of the major developments in human history. Archaeological studies have demonstrated that the trajectories of Neolithisation in Northwest Europe were diverse. This book presents a study into the archaeology of the communities involved in the process of Neolithisation in the Lower Rhine Area, 5500-2500 cal BC. It elucidates the role played by the indigenous communities in relation to their environmental context and in view of the changes that becoming Neolithic brought about. This work brings together a comprehensive array of excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area. Their analysis shows that the succession of Late Mesolithic Swifterbant culture, Hazendonk group, and Vlaardingse culture societies represents a continuous long-term tradition of inhabitation of the wetlands and wetland margins of this area, forming a culturally continuous record of communities in the transition to agriculture. After demonstrating the diversity of the Mesolithic, the subsequent developments regarding Neolithisation are studied from an indigenous perspective. Foregrounding the relationship between local communities and the dynamic wetland landscape, the study shows that the archaeological evidence of regional inhabitation points to long term flexible behaviour and pragmatic decisions being made concerning livelihood food economy and mobility This disposition also influenced how the novel elements of Neolithisation were incorporated Animal husbandry crop cultivation and sedentism were an addition to the existing broad spectrum economy but were incorporated within a set of integrative strategies For the interpretation of Neolithisation this study offers a complementary approach to existing research Instead of arguing for a short transition based on the economic importance of domesticates and cultigens at sites this study emphasises the persistent traditions of the communities involved New elements instead of bringing about radical changes are shown to be attuned to existing hunter gatherer practices By documenting indications of the mentalit of the inhabitants of the wetlands it is demonstrated that their mindset remained essentially Mesolithic for millennia This book is accompanied by a separate 422 page volume containing the appendices These constitute a comprehensive inventory of 159 mostly excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area

Lovis,2016-05-18 This volume deals with the pressing issue of uncertainty in archaeological modeling Detecting where and when uncertainty is introduced to the modeling process is critical as are strategies for minimizing reconciling or accommodating such uncertainty Included chapters provide unique perspectives on uncertainty in archaeological modeling ranging in both theoretical and methodological orientation The strengths and weaknesses of various identification and mitigation techniques are discussed in particular sensitivity analysis The chapters demonstrate that for archaeological modeling purposes there is no quick fix for uncertainty indeed each archaeological model requires intensive consideration of uncertainty and specific applications for calibration and validation As very few such techniques have been problematized in a systematic manner or published in the archaeological literature this volume aims to provide guidance and direction to other modelers in the field by distilling some basic principles for model testing derived from insight gathered in the case studies presented Additionally model applications and their attendant uncertainties are presented from distinct spatio temporal contexts and will appeal to a broad range of archaeological modelers This volume will also be of interest to non modeling archaeologists as consideration of uncertainty when interpreting the archaeological record is also a vital concern for the development of non formal or implicit models of human behavior in the past Agency and Identity in the Ancient Near East Sharon R. Steadman,Jennifer C. Ross,2016-04-01 Agency theory examines the relationship between individuals or groups when one party is doing work on behalf of another Agency and Identity in the Ancient Near East offers a theoretical study of agency and identity in Near Eastern archaeology an area which until now has been largely ignored by archaeologists The book explores how agency theory can be employed in reconstructing the meaning of spaces and material culture how agency and identity intersect and how the availability of a textual corpus may impact on the agency approach Ranging from the Neolithic to the Islamic period Agency and Identity in the Ancient Near East covers sites located in Turkey Iraq Syria Jordan Palestine and Israel The volume includes contributions from philology art history computer simulation studies materials science and the archaeology of settlement and architecture Social Perspectives on Ancient Lives from Paleoethnobotanical Data Matthew P. Sayre,Maria C. Bruno,2017-03-20 This volume contributes to the emerging topic of social paleoethnobotany with a series of papers exploring dynamic aspects of past social life particularly the day to day practices and politics of procuring preparing and consuming plants The contributors to this volume illustrate how one can bridge differences between the natural and social sciences through the more socially focused interpretations of botanical datasets The chapters in this volume draw on a diversity of plant derived datasets macrobotanical microbotanical and molecular which contribute to general paleoethnobotanical practice today They also carefully consider the contexts in which the plant remains were recovered These studies illustrate that the richest interpretations come from projects that are able to consider the widest range of data types particularly as they aim to move beyond simple descriptions of food items and environmental settings The authors in this volume address several themes including the collection of wild resources the domestication of crops and spread of agriculture the role of plant remains in questions regarding domestic life ritual and gender as well as the broader implications of a socially engaged paleoethnobotany These studies point a path forward for the constantly evolving field of paleoethnobotany one that is methodologically rigorous and theoretically engaged Together these papers shed light on ways in which the specialized analysis of plant remains can contribute to theory building and advancing archaeological understanding of past lifeways

Leadership and Polity in Mississippian Society Brian M. Butler, Paul D. Welch, 2006 The contributors to this volume argue for a much richer view of variation in Mississippian leadership structures including variation in gender relations economic structure political institutions and religious organization than the often dichotomized view of simple vs complex chiefdoms

Bioarchaeology and Dietary Reconstruction across Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages in Tuscany, Central Italy Giulia Riccomi, 2021-04-01 This volume presents the first multidisciplinary bioarchaeological analysis to reconstruct life conditions in ancient Tuscany between Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages This was done through the examination of stress markers including adult stature periosteal reaction cranial porosities linear enamel hypoplasia and paleodietary reconstruction

Essential Tensions in Archaeological Method and Theory Todd L. VanPool, Christine S. VanPool, 2003 Archaeological theory some say seems to have fragmented into a thousand fundamentalisms By working on a broader set of empirical issues than ever before archaeologists are indeed applying and refining a variety of perspectives Yet the editors of this volume make a case that it is appropriate for archaeologists to use a logical variety of theoretical structures to answer different kinds of questions combining approaches as necessary In that spirit of plurality contributors to this volume identify an important theoretical or methodological problem and present an argument regarding its solution They also provide a critical evaluation of the current state of archaeological method and theory illustrating that such recurrent issues as the role of agency and the importance of social considerations in the formation of archaeological research dominate current theoretical development By presenting both the range of important questions and a variety of answers this volume contributes to the essential tension that will further the growth of archaeological theory

The Historical Turn in Southeastern Archaeology Robbie Ethridge, Eric E. Bowne, 2020-11-03 This volume uses case studies to capture the recent emphasis on history in archaeological reconstructions of America's deep past representing a profound shift in thinking about precolonial and colonial history and helping to erase the false divide between ancient and contemporary America
