Social Work Education in India: A Historical Understanding

Introduction

Social work has a history of evolution more than hundred years (Jennissen, 2010). Its global emergence in the charity-based social welfare services of missionaries was in the UK (Carter, P., Jeffs, T., & Smith, M., 1989). Missionaries spread across the USA shifted voluntary welfare services to an organized work scheme. These American missionaries entered India with an American approach to social work practice (Loewenberg, F. M., 1998). Indian social work practice over the period spread across all states through partially institutional establishments. This chapter describes the historical context of social work, Western social work practice, social work as a profession, identity of the social work profession and social work education. The new ideologies of the West are affecting Indian social work education and practice.

Historical Development of Social Work Education and Practice in India

In the period 1820-1830, British missionaries started social service activities in Bengal Presidency. It was led by social reformers such as Ram Mohan Roy, Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar and others. Gopal Krishna Gokhale founded the Servants of India Society in 1905 and led the way in using reason and scientific approach in finding solutions to problems. In 1924, the Social Service League started a training class to train a cadre of volunteers for social development. They offered a series of lectures on social subjects. The students had to carry out various social work activities in the city as voluntary unpaid services (Desai A., 2002).

American missionary Clifford Manshardt initiated professional social work in India. In the first year in India, he stayed in Ahmadnagar district of Bombay province. He studied rural India and extended his work in industrial labour communities in the Byculla area of Mumbai (erstwhile Bombay) city. After 10 years of his service in local communities, he was invited to be an adviser to the trustees of Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (Pathak, 1981). Professionalisation of social work education was started under Diverse political and social events across the world have shaped social work and its education leading to aims and methods that are shared and contested. This book brings together through 13 interviews and biographies the lives, experiences and contributions of leading social work educators from Comoros, the Caribbean, India, Mexico, Sweden, Switzerland, the United States and the United Kingdom. Their receipt of IASSW's Katherine Kendall Award recognized that they were at the forefront of establishing and securing social work education during this period of internationalization. Exploring the aims and priorities of these leading social work educators, Askeland and Payne draw out a historical and contextual account of how social work education became widely adopted in different national and cultural environments. The Awardees' diverse lives and professional experiences reveal the issues they faced, the paths they travelled and the prospects and threats confronting social work and its education more widely.

Substance Use in Social Work Education and Training Hilda Loughran, Wulf Livingston, 2017-10-02 Substance use has become an increasingly common concern for all aspects of social work practice and especially when working with mental health and vulnerable families. This requires all social workers to have sufficient education and training in alcohol and other drugs across a range of settings. This volume presents evidence from a number of major studies which examine the current state of social work education in relation to substance use. These contextual considerations are complemented by specific applied analyses which explore classroom methodological practice and theoretical considerations.
