which rural people build futures in this unique policy landscape and how their aspirations and desires are articulated as projects involving both citizens and the state This produces a politics of development that happens through and around the state as people navigate discourses of betterment to imagine and make new futures at individual and collective levels

Contemporary Chinese Rural Reform Xiang Wu, 2015-12-30 This book offers an eyewitness account of China's twenty years of rural reform It records the successive changes in different types of China's rural economic systems from rural cooperatives to the people's communes to the household responsibility system It demonstrates that as the starting point of rural reform the household contract management played an unexpected role in promoting the acceleration of China's modernization process Further the book presents a systematic explanation for the cause and results of the reforms without which it would be impossible to fully comprehend the rise of China over the last three decades

Going to the Countryside Yu Zhang, 2020-03-03 Since the beginning of the twentieth century modern Chinese intellectuals reformers revolutionaries leftist journalists and idealistic youth had often crossed the increasing gap between the city and the countryside which made the act of going to the countryside a distinctively modern experience and a continuous practice in China Such a spatial crossing eventually culminated in the socialist state program of down to the villages movements during the 1960s and 1970s What then was the special significance of going to the countryside before that era Going to the Countryside deals with the cultural representations and practices of this practice between 1915 and 1965 focusing on individual homecoming rural reconstruction revolutionary journeys to Yan'an the revolutionary going down to the people as well as going to the frontiers and rural hometowns for socialist construction As part of the larger discourses of enlightenment revolution and socialist industrialization going to the countryside entailed new ways of looking at the world and ordinary people brought about new experiences of space and time initiated new means of human communication and interaction generated new forms of cultural production revealed a fundamental epistemic shift in modern China and ultimately created a new aesthetic social and political landscape As a critical response to the urban turn in the past few decades this book brings the rural back to the central concern of Chinese cultural studies and aims to bridge the city and the countryside as two types of important geographical entities which have often remained as disparate scholarly subjects of inquiry in the current state of China studies Chinese modernity has been characterized by a dual process that created problems from the vast gap between the city and the countryside but simultaneously initiated constant efforts to cope with the gap personally collectively and institutionally The process of crossing two distinct geographical spaces was often presented as continuous explorations of various ways of establishing the connectivity interaction and relationship of these two imagined geographical entities Going to the Countryside argues that this new body of cultural productions did not merely turn the rural into a constantly changing representational space most importantly the rural has been constructed as a distinct modern experiential and aesthetic realm characterized by revolutionary changes in human conceptions and sentiments

Three Visions Of Chinese Socialism

Dorothy J Solinger, 2019-08-22 For many years most scholarly and journalistic interpretation of Chinese politics has followed the practice of the media in the People's Republic analyzing conflict among the leadership in terms of a dichotomy between two lines or the two line struggle. The adherents of this model refer to the two lines as ideologues or radicals on the one hand versus pragmatists or moderates on the other. In this book the authors propose that Chinese politics can more fruitfully be assessed in light of a clash among three rather than two competing visions. Policy conflicts they conclude occur because of disagreements over the relative priorities to set among three competing values: productivity, mass participation, and mobilization and order. Each author analyzes debates over market mobilization and bureaucratic approaches in a particular policy sector demonstrating how differing visions have influenced policy formation. China's Rural Development Policy

Minzi Su, 2009 The Chinese Worker After Socialism William Hurst, 2009-03-05 This fascinating study considers the fate of 35 million workers laid off from the state-owned sector in China. The Transition to Socialism in China (Routledge Revivals) Mark Selden, Victor Lippit, 2016-07-01 First published in 1982, the dramatic changes in policy and theory following the death of Chairman Mao in 1976 and the publication of the most extensive official and unofficial data on the Chinese economy and society in twenty years both necessitated and made possible a thorough reconsideration of the full range of issues pertaining to the political and economic trajectory of the People's Republic in its first three decades. The contributors to this volume initiated a comprehensive effort to address fundamental problems of China's socialist development and to reassess earlier perspectives and conclusions. Socialism with Chinese Characteristics Roland Boer, 2021-04-27 This book covers the whole system of Socialism with Chinese Characteristics dealing with Deng Xiaoping's theory, the socialist market economy, a moderately well-off Xiaokang society, China's practice and theory of socialist democracy, human rights, and Xi Jinping's Marxism. In short, the resolute focus is the Reform and Opening Up. Socialism with Chinese Characteristics is one of the most important global realities today. However, the concept and its practice remain largely misunderstood outside China. This book sets to redress such a lack of knowledge by making available to non-Chinese speakers the sophisticated debates and conclusions in China concerning socialism with Chinese Characteristics. It presents this material in a way that is both accessible and thorough. China After Socialism Barrett L. McCormick, Jonathan Unger, 2017-07-05 As part of the series Socialism and Social Movements, this volume explores the conditions and prospects of China moving toward a type of developmental state. The lessons of economic and political reform in Eastern Europe are discussed in relation to the overall topic. Factional-Ideological Conflicts in Chinese Politics Olivia Cheung, 2025-10-01 This book reconstructs the factional ideological conflicts surrounding socialist transformation and political reform in China that were played out through factional model making, a norm-bound mechanism for elites of the Chinese Communist Party to contest the party line publicly. Dazhai, Anhui, Nanjie, Shekou, Shenzhen, Guangdong, and Chongqing were cultivated into factional models by party elites before Xi Jinping came to power in 2012. Although factional model making undermined party discipline, it often did not threaten regime security and even contributed to regime resilience through strengthening collective leadership and other means This follows that the suppression of factional model making under Xi might undermine longer term regime resilience However Xi believes that regime security rests on his strongman rule not any benefits that factional model making may contribute It is in this spirit that he grooms Zhejiang into a party model for his policy programme of common prosperity which is designed to legitimize his vision of socialism Chinese Village, Socialist State Edward Friedman,Paul Pickowicz,Mark Selden,Kay Ann Johnson,1991-01-01 This portrait of social change in the North China plain depicts how the world of the Chinese peasant evolved during an era of war and how it in turn shaped the revolutionary process The book is based on evidence gathered from archives and interviews with villagers and rural officials
