History of Transparency in Politics and Society Jens Ivo Engels, Frédéric Monier, 2020-08-10 Today the demand for transparency is omnipresent In particular transparency is considered a prerequisite for good governance for political participation and democracy On closer inspection however transparency proves to be ambivalent For complete transparency has not yet been achieved anywhere Moreover measures to increase transparency can have the opposite effect and stir up mistrust Historians are just beginning to discover this topic The volume assembles contributions covering European history since the 19th century The contributors focus on political and cultural history but include also economic and media history as well as the history of ideas They analyse publicly debated demands and efforts for transparency conceived as the access to information or its disclosure

Corruption in Urban Politics and Society, Britain 1780-1950 John Smith, 2017-05-15 Despite much recent interest in the area of urban governance little work has been done on the changing ethical standards of urban leaderships governing institutions or the policing of public life Yet the issue of ethical standards in public life has become a central concern in contemporary public discourse with issues of public probity moral order and personal standards re emerging as central features of political debate This volume places these debates into their historical perspective by examining the linkages between processes of modernisation urbanisation and the ethical standards of governance and public life It considers how ethical debates arise as a result of differential access to positions of authority and from competition for public resources The contributions are drawn from a wide range of scholarly and disciplinary backgrounds and provide a broad analysis of the phenomenon of corruption assessing how debates about corruption arose the narratives used to criticise established modes of public conduct and their consequences for urban leadership

The Making of Modern English Society from 1850 Janet Roebuck,2005-08-04 In the second half of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twentieth century a variety of forces emerged which changed society in many profound and subtle ways The Making of Modern English Society from 1850 uses the findings of recent historical and sociological research contemporary literature and a wide range of historical sources to form a clear picture of the main patterns of the social changes which took place in this turbulent period Jane Roebuck shows how in these hundred years the whole fabric of society altered more rapidly and radically than in any preceding century She gives an account of the dramatic change which occurred in all spheres of national life She demonstrates how the drift towards socialism which began in the nineteenth century gathered momentum in the twentieth and how massive social change was the product of the two world wars In the field of economics the author considers the development of the maturing but still primitive industrial economy of the mid nineteenth century into a modern economy based on mass production and mass consumption She also describes the change in emphasis from desire for world power to concern for domestic prosperity and welfare services
