Recovering Bodies G. Thomas Couser, 1997-11-01 This is a provocative look at writing by and about people with illness or disability in particular HIV AIDS breast cancer deafness and paralysis who challenge the stigmas attached to their conditions by telling their lives in their own ways and on their own terms Discussing memoirs diaries collaborative narratives photo documentaries essays and other forms of life writing G Thomas Couser shows that these books are not primarily records of medical conditions they are a means for individuals to recover their bodies or those of loved ones from marginalization and impersonal medical discourse Responding to the recent growth of illness and disability narratives in the United States such works as Juliet Wittman's Breast Cancer Journal John Hockenberry's Moving Violations Paul Monette's Borrowed Time An AIDS Memoir and Lou Ann Walker's A Loss for Words The Story of Deafness in a Family Couser addresses questions of both poetics and politics He examines why and under what circumstances individuals choose to write about illness or disability what role plot plays in such narratives how and whether closure is achieved who assumes the prerogative of narration which conditions are most often represented and which literary conventions lend themselves to representing particular conditions By tracing the development of new subgenres of personal narrative in our time this book explores how explicit consideration of illness and disability has enriched the repertoire of life writing In addition Couser's discussion of medical discourse joins the current debate about whether the biomedical model is entirely conducive to humane care for ill and disabled people With its sympathetic critique of the testimony of those most affected by these conditions Recovering Bodies contributes to an understanding of the relations among bodily dysfunction cultural conventions and identity in contemporary America
