Children's Play, Pretense, and Story Susan Douglas, Lesley Stirling, 2015-12-21 At the heart of this volume is the recognition that children's engagement with play and story are intrinsically and intricately linked The contributing authors share a passionate interest in the development and well being of children in particular through their use of imagination and adaptation of the everyday into play and stories Following these principles the volume explores the connections between play story and pretense with regard to many cultural and contextual factors that influence the way these elements vary in children's lives In a departure from earlier collections on play and story the authors take a particular focus on normative as compared with atypical development This collection begins with an approach to understanding the developmental relationship between play and story which recognizes their similarities while acknowledging their differences Much of the collection addresses pretend play and story in children with autism spectrum disorder an understudied but important group for consideration as these dimensions of their lives and development have often been considered problematic The volume also includes sections on play and story in classroom settings and play and story across cultures including non English speaking environments such as Israel Romania China and Mexico It concludes with a discussion of how play differs across sociocultural and economic contexts making a unifying claim for the importance of play in children's lives but also calling for an understanding of what play means to very different groups of children bombed by a more powerful invader often finds itself bonded in greater unity of purpose and with a greater instinct for survival than one might imagine England experienced such during the Second World War years of 1939-1945. This story is set in the period of The Second World War. It is written from a traditional English and British perspective. Its purpose is not to glorify war but to offer the reader both young and older an opportunity to feel what it was like for a man, woman or child to live through and to provide a flavour of the English Nationalism that prevailed then and since.

Slow Journalism Megan Le Masurier, 2020-04-02. Slow Journalism has emerged in recent years to enact a critique of the limitations and dangers of the speed of much mainstream contemporary journalistic practice. There have been types of journalism produced and consumed slowly for centuries of course. What is new is the context of hyper acceleration and over production of journalism where quality has suffered, ethics are compromised and user attention has eroded. Many have been asking if there is another way to practice journalism. The emergence of Slow Journalism suggests that there is. Many international scholars and practitioners have been thinking critically about the problems wrought by speed and are utilising the concept of slow to describe a new way of thinking about and producing journalism. This edited collection offers theoretical perspectives and case studies on the practice of slow journalism around the globe. Slow Journalism is a new practice for new times. This book was originally published as two special issues of Journalism Practice and Digital Journalism.

The collection consists of twenty-four stories composed between the late 1930s and the early 1960s and reflects the immense flux of the mid-century from the Great Depression to the Spanish Civil War, World War II, the Civil Rights movement and second wave feminism. Garner takes on issues ranging from anglophone/francophone conflict in Canada to racism in the American South, from the disenfranchisement of First Nations people to the mistreatment of the mentally disabled. Best Stories is not only notable for the devastating precision of its prose but also for its contribution to the Spanish Civil War literary canon. This new edition brings short fiction by Garner into conversation with the wider canon of Canadian and transnational leftist and proletarian literature.

Fish Out of Water Kikanza Nuri-Robins, Lewis Bundy, 2016-04-07. Sometimes people just don't fit in. They may not be a member of the dominant group; they may not have figured out the norms of the dominant culture; or members of the dominant culture may not realize that the organization's culture is marginalizing. As advocates for social justice, it is important to notice and teach the cultural codes, the house rules that contribute to success in a particular environment and to dismantle the codes within those environments that target, marginalize or exclude. This book is helpful for

Dazzling Kirkus Reviews starred review
Robert Louis Stevenson 1850-1894 is famed for Treasure Island Kidnapped and Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde but he published many other novels and stories before his death at forty-four

Mark Twain said his eyes burned with smoldering rich fire
Born in Edinburgh to a family of lighthouse engineers Stevenson set many stories in Scotland but sought travel and adventure in a life as romantic as his novels

The adventures were shared with his free spirited American wife Fanny with whom he moved to the South Pacific
Samoan friends named Stevenson
Storyteller Reading he said should be absorbing and voluptuous we should gloat over a book be rapt clean out of ourselves
His own books have been translated into dozens of languages
Jorge Luis Borges called his stories one of the forms of happiness and other modernist masters as various as Proust Nabokov and Calvino have paid tribute to his greatness as a literary artist
In Storyteller Leo Damrosch brings to life an unforgettable personality illuminated by many who knew Stevenson well and drawing from thousands of the writer's letters in his many voices and moods playful imaginative at times tragic
