From Labouring to Learning Michael R.M. Ward, 2016-04-29 Highly Commended in the Society of Educational Studies Book Prize This book explores how economic changes and the growing importance of educational qualifications in a shrinking labour market particularly affects marginalized young men It follows a group of young working class men in a de-industrial community and challenges commonly held representations that often appear in the media and in policy discourses which portray them as feckless out of control educational failures and lacking aspiration Ward argues that for a group of young men in a community of social and economic deprivation expectations and transitions to adulthood are framed through the industrial legacy of geographically and historically shaped class and gender codes These codes have an impact on what it means to be a man and what behaviour is deemed acceptable and what is not

Generation X Professors Speak Elwood Watson, 2013-03-22 While the Baby Boomer generation has consistently commanded widespread attention both scholarly and popular little has been written about Generation X the 46 million Americans born between the mid 1960s and late 1970s But with Baby Boomers now moving into retirement members of Generation X have come to the forefront of American society Consequently understanding Generation X and the potential impact of the independent sometimes rebellious spirit that characterizes it is critical In Generation X Professors Speak Voices from Academia Elwood Watson has assembled a unique collection of thematically arranged essays by academics that offers insights into the issues conflicts and triumphs that epitomize this often overlooked generation One essayist writes about her determination to achieve her career goals without sacrificing time with her family while another speaks about being a stay at home dad and teaching part time at a university Another essay covers disabilities depression and mental illness pointing to the sympathetic approach Gen Xers tend to take toward individuals often marginalized by society The acceptance of interracial marriage on the part of members of Generation X is engagingly presented by an ivy league educated white man married to a woman of African descent And the role religion plays in the lives of Gen Xers is movingly expressed by an essayist whose commitment to his spiritual faith have allowed him to combat racial social family personal and academic issues These and the other essays in this collection passionately and sometime provocatively cover topics ranging from career class family life health music and physical disabilities to race religion and sexuality Together the essays define the characteristics and demonstrate the diversity of Generation X and will appeal to scholars students and others interested in social history psychology gender studies and popular culture

The Tattered Tapestry Tom Smith, Karla Smith, Kevin Smith, 2007-08-17 I am no longer a poet I have lost all my words Vibrant intelligent and active nineteen year old college student Karla Smith embraces the future with unbridled enthusiasm But when she suddenly loses interest in everything she always loved her family is understandably alarmed Where is the bubbly optimistic Karla they all know and love Weeks go by and Karla hides under her bedcovers refuses to engage in any of her passions and returns only a wall of silence to her family's pleading questions Eventually diagnosed as bipolar Karla experiences the illness's major symptoms of recurring depression and periodic mania Her parents Fran and Tom and her twin brother Kevin endure her tragic lows and euphoric highs for seven long years before Karla loses the battle with her illness committing suicide at the tender age of twenty six The Smith family weaves threads of pain confusion grief and hope into a moving portrait of the challenge and tragedy of bipolar disorder But it's Karla's own story her brave fight against the debilitating disorder and her enduring struggle for balance acceptance and peace that lies at the heart of this book offering hope and strength for everyone who suffers from bipolar disorder and their loved ones
